

ROOSEVELT WILL NOT OPPOSE HUGHES

HUGHES STEPS DOWN FROM SUPREME BENCH

DENOUNCES PRESENT ADMINISTRATION'S FOREIGN POLICY

Former Justice Declares for a Dominant, Thoroughgoing Americanism in Breaking Silence Which Had Kept His Party Leaders in the Dark as to His Attitude—Withholds Comment on Colonel's Declination.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Charles Evans Hughes stepped down today from the supreme court bench, and again a private citizen, accepted the Republican nomination for president. In a telegram ringing with denunciation of the present administration's foreign policy and declaring for a dominant, thoroughgoing Americanism, he gave his decision to Chairman Harding of the Republican national convention and broke the long silence which had kept the leader's attitude toward the great issues of the day.

Recognizes Right to Summon.
"I have not desired the nomination," the telegram said, "I have wished to remain on the bench. But in this critical period of our national history I recognize that it is my right to summon and that it is my paramount duty to respond."

Within an hour after Chairman Harding had notified him of his nomination, Mr. Hughes had accepted the call. His resignation, a scant two-line letter without a superfluous word was on its way to the white house from the Hughes home before the nominee had dispatched the message of acceptance and called the waiting group of newspapermen into his study to tell them of his decision. President Wilson accepted the resignation in a reply almost as brief. Apparently Mr. Hughes' letter was so framed that the president might be saved the embarrassment of expressing regret or making more than a formal reply.

Letter of Resignation Brief.
"I hereby resign the office of associate justice of the supreme court of the United States," he wrote. To which the president replied, "I am in receipt of your letter of resignation and feel constrained to yield to your desire. I therefore, accept your resignation as justice of the supreme court of the United States, to take effect at once."

When copies of both the telegram to Chicago and the letter of resignation had been made public, Mr. Hughes left his home for his customary afternoon walk. Soon after his return, Lawrence Green, his private secretary, told him of Colonel Roosevelt's conditional declination of the Progressive nomination. Mr. Hughes sent word to inquirers that he had nothing to say concerning it. His friends, however, were outspoken in their satisfaction over Colonel Roosevelt's attitude.

Announces Stand in Telegram.
In his telegram of acceptance Mr. Hughes announced his stand for the firm and unflinching maintenance of all the rights of American citizens on land and sea, for "an Americanism that knows no ulterior purpose; for a patriotism that is single and complete," and for "preparedness, not only entirely adequate for our defense with respect to numbers and equipment in both army and navy, but with all thoroughness to the end that each branch of the service there may be the utmost efficiency, under the most competent administrative heads."

What he thinks of the administration's foreign policy was told in part as follows:
"I neither impugn motives nor underestimate difficulties, but it is most regrettable true that in our foreign policy we have suffered incalculably from the weak and vacillating course which has been taken with regard to Mexico—a course so lamentably wrong with regard to both our rights and our duties."

"At the outset of the administration the high responsibilities of our diplomatic intercourse with foreign nations were subordinated to a conception of partisan requirements and we presented to the world a humiliating spectacle of ineptitude. Belated efforts have not availed to recover the influence and prestige thus unfortunately sacrificed, and brave words have been stripped of their force thru indecision."

Through the pre-convention campaign, Justice Hughes had insisted that he would not be nominated. Not until last night, after the balloting began, did he admit to his intimates that he might be drafted to lead his party. Even then he made no statement as to what action he would take but his silence was interpreted that he would accept certainly if the action of the convention were practically unanimous.

As the balloting was resumed today, the Hughes household went along as usual except that the justice abandoned his office on the first floor and retired to the privacy of the third floor. With Mrs. Hughes and their little daughter, Elizabeth, the eldest daughter, Miss Catherine, had gone to take a lesson from a tutor and Miss Helen was in New York preparatory to leaving on a Y. W. C. A. camping trip. The only son, Charles E. Hughes, Jr., a lawyer in New York City, was at the Plattsburg military camp.

Before the balloting began telegrams began to arrive, predicting the nomination and extending congratulations. At one o'clock lunch was announced for the family. Then came the press despatch announcing the nomination. Mr. Green, secretary to Mr. Hughes, mounted the stairs three at a time.

"I simply told the Justice he had been nominated and turned my back," he remarked later.

Newspapermen Seek Audience.
Newspapermen crowded into the justice's office seeking an audience. Mr. Hughes came down to the reception hall with tears in his eyes and a tremble in his voice as he accepted the congratulations of the newspaper representatives. He was asked for a statement.

"Now all I know about this is what you have told me and I have nothing to say now but if you are interested I may have a statement for you at 3 o'clock," he replied.

The newspaper men rushed out, the justice turned to Mr. Green and the two entered the office.

Long before the statement was ready the reporters began to gather again. They were shown to the drawing room upstairs. At last they heard the justice's voice asking for a messenger boy. One of the score outside responded and was started for the white house. A few minutes later, second was sent to the telegraph office with the message to Chicago.

With copies of the letter of resignation and messages to Chairman Harding in his hand, Mr. Hughes himself came up stairs to meet those who awaited him. There was none of the subdued tone or hesitation, which had characterized his first greeting.

"I must apologize to you boys for my typewriting facilities, for I have been able to make only enough copies for the press associations," he explained. "Mr. Green is making more but it looks as if it would be dark before he had enough for all you."

Not long afterward Justice Brandeis and Mrs. Brandeis arrived and were received by Mr. and Mrs. Hughes. Justice Brandeis was Boston correspondent of the (Hughes law firm years ago and the two men have been friends ever since. The visitors remained a half an hour.

Hundreds Gather About Residence.
Hundreds gathered about the residence in Sixteenth street, about a mile from the white house during the afternoon but there was no demonstration. In the line of automobiles that filed up the street was that of President and Mrs. Wilson, out for a ride. At six o'clock newspaper offices telephoned to Mr. Green the statement issued by Mr. Roosevelt. Mr. Hughes was informed of its substance, but replied that he had nothing to say. There was a decided air of gratification and relief about the house however. During the evening, telegrams by the hundreds poured in and many callers left cards, despite a violent hail and electrical storm which swept over the city.

Among the hundreds of telegrams received by Mr. Hughes was one from Former President Taft. It read:

War News Summarized

The Russian offensive in Volhynia and Galicia daily is assuming new phases and marking new ground won by General Brussiloff's troops. The Russians are continuing to push westward from Lutsk after crossing the river Sty, fighting rear guard actions with the Austrians as they retire. In Galicia northeast of Tarnopol, the Austrian defense appears to be stiffening, heavy fighting being reported there for heights which have changed hands several times. Further south the Russians are nearing the Zlota Lipa river, from which the Austrians advanced in their drive of last September.

At Verdun, the German war office announces further progress northeast of the fortress where ground has been gained southwest of Fort Douaumont and west of Fort Vaux. In taking the field work in the latter sector, more than 500 men and 22 machine guns were captured by the Germans, who announce that since June 8th their captures have totaled more than 1,500 men.

The British admiralty announces that the Cruiser Hampshire on which Field Marshall Lord Kitchener and members of his staff were lost, was sunk by the explosion of a mine. All hope, the admiralty states has been abandoned that any except the 12 men who landed from a raft were saved from the cruiser.

FAIRBANKS MAKES STATEMENT ACCEPTING HIS NOMINATION

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 10.—Charles Warren Fairbanks, in a statement given out here tonight, accepted the nomination for vice-president made at the Republican national convention in Chicago today.

His statement follows:
"I was not a candidate for the vice presidential nomination and requested the chairman of the Indiana delegation to withdraw my name if presented. The nomination was made and the convention adjourned before my dispatch was received. I feel it my duty under the circumstances to accept the commission, which the party has so generously and unanimously placed in my hands."

Mr. Fairbanks received the following telegram from former Justice Hughes:

"Your telegram deeply appreciated. I heartily congratulate you on your nomination. It is most gratifying."

SHERMAN PREDICTS REPUBLICAN PARTY VICTORY IN NOVEMBER

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 10.—United States Senator Lawrence V. Sherman who instructed his delegates to vote for Hughes in the Republican national convention in a statement tonight predicts the victory of the Republican party at the election in November. In discussing the convention Mr. Sherman said:

"I joined in the belief of the fitness of Mr. Hughes, and asked my friends of the Illinois delegation and others to give their united vote to Mr. Hughes. I wish to express my profound gratitude for the support of the Illinois Republicans and those elsewhere who have so signally honored me with their confidence."

"Let us now turn to the coming duty of the campaign to redeem the country from Democratic misrule and restore the wholesome administration of a people's government by a sweeping Republican victory."

TWENTY CARS TO START IN AUTO DERBY TODAY

Chicago, June 10.—Not less than twenty cars will face the starter at the second annual 300 mile automobile derby here tomorrow, it was announced tonight following preliminary trials that kept cars on the two mile track most of the day. The race, which was to have been run today was postponed on account of the heavy rains of the three preceding days, making it impossible to hold speed trials for qualification. All of the cars qualifying established a speed of 90 miles an hour or more.

BUILDING GUTTED BY FIRE

Chicago, June 10.—Fire of unknown origin gutted the five story building of the Carter Ink company at State and North Water streets, entailing a loss estimated at $150,000.

"I congratulate you on a testimonial to your standing as a statesman, citizen and patriot—unique and unexampled in the history of American politics and I felicitate the country on an opportunity it certainly will embrace."

Of the candidates before the Republican convention, Fairbanks, Weeks, Cummins, Burton, Root and Knox sent telegrams of congratulations and support. Six delegates from Colorado who supported Colonel Roosevelt assured him of their support. Mr. Hughes replied only to the message from Mr. Fairbanks, conveying to the vice-presidential nominee his congratulations. He sent word to the newspapermen that he wished to express thru them his appreciation of the flood of congratulatory messages.

BLTYHE SAYS CRANE NOMINATED HUGHES

States Uncle Murray Was Most Potent Force Toward Getting Nomination

SCARED OF ROOSEVELT

Feared T. R. Would Grab Convention and Name Himself If Old Guard Didn't Hurry Up

GREW LION HEARTED

(By Samuel G. Blythe)
(Copyright 1916 by Central Press Association.)

CHICAGO, June 10.—The Republican Convention nominated Hughes, the widespread opinion among the Republicans that he is the man who will be strongest against Wilson also nominated Hughes, but principally the Honorable W. Murray Crane of Massachusetts nominated Hughes.

We shall hear many claims made by men that they were the original Hughes men and that they were highly efficacious in securing that glorious result and so will Mr. Hughes hear these claims. The wires were hurrying them to him by scores before one o'clock this afternoon. The fact will not be altered by the "I-don't-it" contingent and their feverish eagerness to get into the Hughes good graces for future perquisitorial preference.

Crane Most Potent Force
The Honorable W. Murray Crane was the most potent force toward securing that nomination and it came about because Uncle Murray, naturally of a meek and retiring disposition, isn't so meek and retiring as has been supposed when he gets good and scared and it comes to putting across a solution of a problem such as this has been.

Uncle Murray is timorous and timid and those very attributes made him firm as a crag, which he does not resemble in the least in his advocacy of Hughes, for when a timid man is scared in proper degree he becomes a captain courageous against the thing that scares him. He doesn't want it happen because he is scared of what may result and he fights against that and for the antidote.

Uncle Murray is a small man and a noiseless man and an astute man. He recognized the potential strength of Hughes with the people weeks ago. Weeks ago he foresaw, or was forewarned, of another fearsome contingency, he was scared of Roosevelt. Uncle Murray felt that if his companions in the old guard did not hurry up and name somebody, preferably Hughes, Roosevelt would grab the convention away from them and name himself. His companions argued with him, showed him the card indices wherein were recorded the names and political and vital statistics of the 985 firm and rock-bound patriots who were collected for this convention and for no other purpose than to prevent the nomination of Roosevelt, but to no purpose. Uncle Murray was appalled of Roosevelt and that made him heroic for Hughes. He wanted to give out statement when he arrived in Chicago saying Hughes was the logical and necessary outcome of the convention, but his companions old guardsters sat on his chest and prevented that. They couldn't prevent his telling all comers that in his coolest judgment Hughes was his first choice to it. Abeit, they tried to hold him in, non-committal like.

Had No Passion for Hughes.
Now the odd thing about it was, Uncle Murray had no passion for the nomination of Hughes, as for that he was in exactly the same frame of mind as his old guard associates. None of those wanted to nominate Hughes, for they saw no future nourishment in that. They wanted some other safe and sane and possibly some more amenable man. The difference between Crane and the others was that Crane had clearer vision and he was more scared of Roosevelt. The others asserted that they had the convention absolutely sewed up against Roosevelt and Uncle Murray listened and admitted that it might be so and then again it might not and wasn't taking any chances.

He was for naming Hughes on the first ballot and adjourning in a hurry for fear Roosevelt might do something untoward to them. He worked on the assumption that it would be better to be safe with Hughes and if Roosevelt had beaten them a grand and continuous lodge

As a member of the court his clearness of comprehension and his ability of concise statement led to his selection by the chief justice in even the first years of his service to write most of the important decisions rendered by the court. Among these were the so-called state rate cases, the pure food law decision and the Virginia-West Virginia debt cases.

In New York City, December 31st, 1888, Mr. Hughes married Antonette, daughter of Walter S. Carter, and has four children, Charles Evans Hughes, Jr., Helen, Catherine and Elizabeth Hughes.

Biographical Sketch of Republican Nominee

Charles Evans Hughes was born in Glens Falls, N. Y., April 11th, 1862. He is four years younger than former President Roosevelt and six years younger than President Wilson. His father was a Baptist minister and his mother was a devout woman who shaped his early education with the idea of preparing him for the ministry. The family moved to Newark, N. J., when he was a boy and during his young manhood settled in New York City. Brilliant always as a student, young Hughes was graduated from a New York high school at the head of his class at the age of 15, so young that his father would not permit him to enter college for a year. He was graduated from Brown University in 1881, one of the five Phi Beta Kappa honor men of his year. Finally he attended the Columbia University Law School, holding the prize fellowship from 1884 to 1887. At the beginning of his career, Mr. Hughes was an instructor in Greek mathematics at an academy in Delhi, N. Y. A chiding remark from the principal of that academy to the effect that young Hughes would have trouble controlling the discipline of his classes, because he had "no more beard than an egg" is cited in innumerable biographical records of Mr. Hughes as having been responsible for the Hughes beard which since has figured so largely in political caricatures.

After a short experience as an educator Mr. Hughes became a law clerk in office of Stewart L. Woodford, who later was elected lieutenant governor of the state of New York but his health was undermined by his work and he accepted a chair as professor of law at Cornell University. Two years later, however, he was practicing law in New York.

The public first heard of Mr. Hughes in 1905 and 1906. It was in those years that he served, first as counsel for the Stevens legislative committee investigating the gas companies of New York and then as counsel for the Armstrong legislative committee for the investigation of insurance business in New York. In the first investigation Mr. Hughes made a reputation but it attracted little attention outside of New York City. In the insurance investigation however he unearthed nationwide scandals and the whole country followed the dramatic story which he revealed.

Before his investigation was half finished, however, Republican leaders seized upon the record which he had made to carry their party to victory. The New York City Republican convention nominated him for mayor but he declined because he had not finished the insurance investigation. The next year when W. R. Hearst was nominated for governor by both the Democrats and the Independent League, Mr. Hughes was selected by the Republicans as the man to defeat the Fusion candidate and he was elected, the only Republican on the state ticket who was not defeated at the election.

Throughout his administration as governor, he was at loggerheads with the Republican organization. He first urged the passage of the public service commission law, telling the legislature that a railroad commission paid by the railroads and with only advisory powers was inadequate. Little attention was paid to the proposed measure by the legislature and Governor Hughes took the question to the people. He stumped the state for his bill and finally the legislature responded.

Hardly had the bill become a law before the legislature passed a two cent passenger fare measure. Governor Hughes vetoed it on the ground that a legislature should not deal arbitrarily with matters requiring investigation particularly when it had just provided machinery for investigating such matters and had granted power to relieve the situation as justice and reason might demand. He also succeeded in having a measure against race track betting enacted, resulting in the closing of important tracks in New York state and thus affecting racing throughout the whole country. With the record of his first term behind him, Governor Hughes was considered prominently for the Republican nomination in 1908. President Roosevelt threw his power in favor of his secretary of war, Mr. Taft and Governor Hughes instead was renominated for governor and re-elected. He achieved widespread reputation as a campaign speaker by opening the Republican campaign at Youngstown, Ohio. It was during this second term in 1910 that President Taft appointed him to the supreme court bench.

As a member of the court his clearness of comprehension and his ability of concise statement led to his selection by the chief justice in even the first years of his service to write most of the important decisions rendered by the court. Among these were the so-called state rate cases, the pure food law decision and the Virginia-West Virginia debt cases.

COLONEL DECLINES MOOSE NOMINATION

REPUBLICANS NAME HUGHES---MAKE CHOICE UNANIMOUS

Nominate Fairbanks for Vice-President—Lodge, Presented By Roosevelt as a Compromise Candidate, Receives Only Seven Votes—Hughes Choice So Soon Results from Over Night Breaking of Allied Favorite Sons Combination.

ROOSEVELT'S ANSWER TO PROGRESSIVE CONVENTION

"To the Progressive convention
"I am very grateful for the honor you confer upon me by nominating me as president. I cannot accept it at this time. I do not know the attitude of the candidate of the Republican party toward the vital questions of the day. Therefore if you desire an immediate decision I must decline the nomination. But if you prefer it I suggest that my conditional refusal to run be placed in the hands of the Progressive national committee. If Mr. Hughes' statements when he makes them shall satisfy the committee that it is for the interest of the country that he be elected they can act accordingly and treat my refusal as definitely accepted. If they are not satisfied they can so notify the Progressive party and at the same time they can confer with me and determine upon whatever action we shall severally deem appropriate to meet the needs of the country."
Signed,
"Theodore Roosevelt."

CHICAGO, June 10.—Charles Evans Hughes, former Governor of New York and until today justice of the supreme court of the United States, was today nominated for the presidency by the Republican national convention. Charles W. Fairbanks of Indiana, elected vice-president with Theodore Roosevelt in 1904, again was chosen for second place on the Republican ticket.

Both nominations, made by overwhelming majorities, were made unanimous.
Lodge Receives Seven Votes.
Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, presented by Roosevelt as a compromise candidate, received seven votes. Colonel Roosevelt himself received eighteen and one half scattered over twelve states.

The nominating ballot showed this count:
Hughes 9494
Roosevelt 1894
Lodge 7
Dupont 5
Weeks 3
Absent 1

Total 987
Ohio Withdraws Burton.
Despite the fact that Frank H. Hitchcock, leader of the Hughes supporters, let it be known while the presidential balloting was in progress that the Hughes men wanted Burton for second place, Ohio withdrew Burton's name leaving the road to Mr. Fairbanks and former Senator Burkett of Nebraska. The ballot for vice-president showed this count:
Fairbanks 863
Burkett 108
Borah 8
Burton 1
Absent, scattering and not voting 6

Total 987
Mr. Hughes will be notified of his nomination officially at a date to be fixed by a committee headed by Senator Warren G. Harding of Ohio, chairman of the convention. Mr. Fairbanks will be notified by a committee headed by Senator William E. Borah of Idaho.

Convention Adjourns at 2:01 p. m. At 2:01 p. m., the convention adjourned. There were expressions of harmony from all the leaders and among the delegates. The delegations which on the final ballot had cast votes for others than Hughes made statements declaring their loyalty to the nominees.

"Six months ago," said Chairman Charles D. Hilles of the Republican national committee, "I said the nominee would be born in the convention. And he was."
"I am very much pleased, of course," said Mr. Hitchcock. "It means a re-united party and victory in November."
The nomination of Mr. Hughes was made possible so soon by an overnight breakup of the allied favorite sons combination which early this morning released its delegates, practically all of whom were known to favor Mr. Hughes when freed from their instructions.
Favorite Sons Withdraw.
When the convention began business shortly before noon the withdrawal of the favorite sons was announced from the platform one after another and votes began dropping into the Hughes column in solid blocks so rapidly that the nomination plainly was assured before the roll call had gone five states. When it got to Colorado the drift was so apparent that a proposal to make it unanimous or nominate him by acclamation was made, but Chairman Harding ruled that the balloting should take its regular course.
Each addition to the Hughes column was greeted by rolls of exultation from the rapidly accumulating Hughes delegates and steadily state by state the votes piled up until New Jersey carried it past the required four hundred and ninety four and the remainder was only a formality.
In rapid succession, as the voting went on Dupont was withdrawn by Delaware and his solid block was cast for Hughes. Illinois withdrew Sherman; Ohio withdrew Burton, Iowa withdrew Cummins. New York withdrew Root, Massachusetts withdrew Weeks. Practically all these new votes were cast for Hughes, only a few remaining in compliment to the favorite sons who brought them.
Pledge Loyalty to Nominee.
Then Senator Weeks and Senator Lodge took the platform, pledged loyalty to the nominee and asked all their supporters to do likewise. Similar announcements were made from all the favorite son delegations. The final analysis of the nominating ballot showed that Hughes had drawn his votes from every state in the union and every territory; that Roosevelt's had been scattered over twelve states; that Dupont's five had come from South Carolina; Lodge's seven from North Carolina, and the final three for Senator Weeks from Massachusetts and Missouri.
Altho the convention when it nominated Mr. Hughes, had no word that he would accept and no statement of his position, one came along soon afterward but not until the convention had adjourned. The former justice had kept to his determination to utter no word in his own behalf, to make no new announcement of his position on issues, and to say nothing which might be construed as becoming a candidate while he wore the robe of a justice in the world's greatest court.
Before the ballot was taken today Senator Smoot of Utah announced the report of the latest meeting of the Republican conferees with the conferees of the Progressive convention disclosing that the Republicans had presented the name of Mr.

tion. And he was."
"I am very much pleased, of course," said Mr. Hitchcock. "It means a re-united party and victory in November."

"I am very much pleased, of course," said Mr. Hitchcock. "It means a re-united party and victory in November."
The nomination of Mr. Hughes was made possible so soon by an overnight breakup of the allied favorite sons combination which early this morning released its delegates, practically all of whom were known to favor Mr. Hughes when freed from their instructions.
Favorite Sons Withdraw.
When the convention began business shortly before noon the withdrawal of the favorite sons was announced from the platform one after another and votes began dropping into the Hughes column in solid blocks so rapidly that the nomination plainly was assured before the roll call had gone five states. When it got to Colorado the drift was so apparent that a proposal to make it unanimous or nominate him by acclamation was made, but Chairman Harding ruled that the balloting should take its regular course.
Each addition to the Hughes column was greeted by rolls of exultation from the rapidly accumulating Hughes delegates and steadily state by state the votes piled up until New Jersey carried it past the required four hundred and ninety four and the remainder was only a formality.
In rapid succession, as the voting went on Dupont was withdrawn by Delaware and his solid block was cast for Hughes. Illinois withdrew Sherman; Ohio withdrew Burton, Iowa withdrew Cummins. New York withdrew Root, Massachusetts withdrew Weeks. Practically all these new votes were cast for Hughes, only a few remaining in compliment to the favorite sons who brought them.
Pledge Loyalty to Nominee.
Then Senator Weeks and Senator Lodge took the platform, pledged loyalty to the nominee and asked all their supporters to do likewise. Similar announcements were made from all the favorite son delegations. The final analysis of the nominating ballot showed that Hughes had drawn his votes from every state in the union and every territory; that Roosevelt's had been scattered over twelve states; that Dupont's five had come from South Carolina; Lodge's seven from North Carolina, and the final three for Senator Weeks from Massachusetts and Missouri.
Altho the convention when it nominated Mr. Hughes, had no word that he would accept and no statement of his position, one came along soon afterward but not until the convention had adjourned. The former justice had kept to his determination to utter no word in his own behalf, to make no new announcement of his position on issues, and to say nothing which might be construed as becoming a candidate while he wore the robe of a justice in the world's greatest court.
Before the ballot was taken today Senator Smoot of Utah announced the report of the latest meeting of the Republican conferees with the conferees of the Progressive convention disclosing that the Republicans had presented the name of Mr.

The bulletin service from the Republican and Progressive conventions furnished the Journal by the Associated Press was most satisfactory. Thru the bulletins posted in the Journal windows in plain, readable type, the people were kept informed of the proceedings in the convention halls quicker and more clearly than if they had been present. Walter De Shara, Associated Press operator, with the Journal, is entitled to great credit for his work and the Associated Press has scored a success—a service that could hardly be equalled.

Illinois College Graduates.

It is something more than usual that the east should send two men to Jacksonville for baccalaureate Sunday of "Illinois." It is also something more than usual that Illinois College should have prepared these two men for service in the east.

Dr. Thomas W. Smith, who will deliver the sermon at Westminster church this morning, is the son of a graduate—of the same name—in 1852, and the grandson of one of the strongest supporters Illinois College had for years, as a trustee, David A. Smith.

While Dr. Smith is now pastor at East Orange, N. J., most of his pastoral life has been in New York City, where he built up a fine church.

The other "Illinois" man to officiate today—at the vesper service—the Rev. Geo. C. Lenington, of Tompkinsville, New York, is another graduate of "old Illinois," promoted from Pisgah and Virginia churches to the suburb of the metropolis. There he has been for several years. But he was seasoned for good work by his family connection in the great republic of Brazil, where his father wrought, and his brother is engaged today in ministerial service. Such men are an honor to the college and to Jacksonville as well.

Hughes Great Type of American Manhood

The news of the nomination of Justice Hughes as candidate of the Republican party will be received with satisfaction by a vast majority of the members of the party as well as the great majority of former members of the Progressive party.

Rippling Rhymes
By WALT MASON

A LITTLE SLEEP.

I like to sleep some after dinner; post-noon slumber is a winner, it makes a hit with me; but when I do some fancy snoring, all kinds of pounding, ripping, roaring, start up immediately. About a thousand dogs assemble, close by, and make the welkin tremble with barks and yowls; the cattle all get busy lowing, and I can hear the bug-house crowing of countless nutty fowls. In the kitchen the domestic, a dandied haughty and majestic, drops dishes on the floor, and grocers' boys and cranks and peddlers, and fifty other kind of meddlers, are thumping at the door. I can't describe a fourth or third of the blameworthy din you ever heard of—a Dante it demands—when I of cnores would take a number, a little sleep, a little slumber, some folding of the hands. I rise, all sore and katzenjammering, denouncing all the frantic slumming, the rumpus and the rush; and now that noise would be no matter, there is an end to fuss and clatter, there comes a solemn hush.

DATES IN ILLINOIS HISTORY.

June 11, 1779—County Lieutenant John Todd appealed to the inhabitants of Illinois (thru letters addressed to the courts) to help the cause of the American Revolution by accepting at full value the paper currency issued by the thirteen revolting states.

Mr. Hughes is known as a conservative, as one who has not sought the office and who has permitted "the office to seek the man." He is under no obligations to old time leaders in party politics. His has been a choice forced on the professional politicians by the sentiment of the people. We believe that he will be a safe and sane candidate and is certainly a safe man to fill the executive chair if elected. The people of the country demand just such a man and his election will be for the best interest of all the people of the United States.

Justice Hughes' record in public life is wholly admirable. He attracted special attention when as an attorney he conducted the prosecution in the now famous insurance investigation which resulted in radical changes in the management of the great insurance companies. Those changes were needed for the benefit of the people at large. The attitude Mr. Hughes assumed at that time of fighting for the cause of the people has characterized his career ever since.

As governor of New York Mr. Hughes manifested further his fearless championship of the people, and without regard to the wishes of the party leaders and bosses, followed in the paths that he considered those of duty. He was the foe of vicious legislation and ever took the position that he would oppose any measure which was for private rather than for public gain. Altho he early in his governorship "fell out" with a number of the old time party leaders, he has for years been accounted a great force in national Republican politics. Eight years ago he traveled thru the west on a speaking campaign in favor of President Taft, and a tribute was paid him by national leaders of the Democratic party in the statement that the most effective work done against them was by Mr. Hughes.

In all essentials the nominee represents the best in American ideals. He has the admirable personal traits and modesty which have given him the deserved reputation of a real democratic spirit. He had years of training as an attorney following a liberal college education. His attainments were such at the bar that he gained a nation wide reputation as an authority on corporation law. While gentle in manner and speech, he is the personification of forcefulness and determination and the annals of New York state bar testimony to this fact in a marked degree. True to Mr. Roosevelt's term, he is not a "pussy foot." Instead he is a vigorous, fearless advocate of those principles that he deems right.

Governor Whitman in nominating him at the Republican convention quoted a public address made eight years ago in which Mr. Hughes gave expression to views on "national defense" and "Americanism," which fully accord with advance thought and spirit today on these same themes.

The course which Mr. Hughes followed during the campaign months was one which if the people had not already been impressed with the strength and greatness of the man, would have impressed them. It became generally known that his ideals of public duty as a member of the supreme court forbade him from making any statement or expression which could be construed as an appeal for the support of the public. Again and again he was urged to make a statement and various subtleties were used in an effort to bring this to pass. Many of his closest friends sought to have him break silence, because they reckoned that his chances for nomination were being lessened because of his failure to make known his views. But pushing aside the temptation to break silence, with calm dignity Justice Hughes proceeded in the discharge of his regular duties and this he did up to the very hour of his nomination. He was determined that nothing he should do or say would bring the supreme court into the disrepute of being linked with politics and he was determined to be free from the accusation of using the influence of his position to secure nomination. This attitude so consistently followed had the result of increasing from day to day the demand for Hughes until the nomination well exemplified the statement made by the New York Sun that "nobody wants Hughes but the people."

When the first news came that Justice Hughes had been nominated the gratification which Republicans felt generally was greatly marred by the announcement that the Progressive convention had nominated Colonel Roosevelt, and it appeared that 1916 was to witness again a three cornered political contest. However, on every hand there were heard expressions of doubt as to the intention of Colonel Roosevelt to run and the statement from Oyster Bay was awaited with intense interest.

When this statement came it was made clear that Colonel Roosevelt could not accept the Progressive nomination until he knew the attitude of Mr. Hughes toward it. It is at all questions of the times. It is at all times that his election will be for the interest of the country, Colonel Roosevelt declared that he will not be a candidate.

All party men familiar with Mr. Hughes' life and principles have no doubt that Colonel Roosevelt will be fully satisfied that the Republican nominee can be counted upon as a most vigorous exponent of Americanism. If, as is wholly probable, Colonel Roosevelt indicates this view and renders final his decision not to accept the Progressive nomination, he will again give proof to the country at large how great a man he really is, and will have supplied incontrovertible testimony that he places the interest of his country above self-aggrandizement. There has been no one in this country for a long period to deny that Colonel Roosevelt is a great man, but he has often been charged with selfishness and a desire for personal glory. His whole conduct during recent months has been so ordered that if his present attitude continues he will have made a great personal contribution to the welfare of the United States and will be entitled to the gratitude of the republic, and that which is of lesser moment—the thanks of the Republican party.

SUCCESSFUL BALLOON ASCENSION

A great throng gathered about the square Saturday afternoon to witness the balloon ascension made by Robert Wiswell. The ascent was made on time and after a very pretty flight the aeronaut descended in a parachute. However, the parachute landed in a rather inopportune place, striking the top of a tree in the yard at the home of Samuel Boston, at the corner of Clay and East College avenue. Mr. Wiswell was able to catch hold of the branches and so completed his descent to the ground in safety. Ropes from the parachute were wound around telephone wires and tree branches and it took considerable time to straighten out the tangle. The balloon landed in Lorton street in good condition.

BACK FROM T. P. A. CONVENTION

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Munson have returned from Lafayette, Ind., where they went to attend the national convention of the Travelers' Protective association. Mr. Munson said yesterday that the people of Lafayette had made most extensive preparations for the entertainment of the 800 visitors attracted to the city by the convention. Illinois was again honored by the election of officers to quite a large number of positions. H. B. Ramey of Champagne was chosen first vice president, W. E. Cable of Bloomington fourth vice president, Charles E. Nelson, Chicago, chairman of the national press committee, W. W. Welsh of Peoria, president of the state secretaries' association. The next national convention will be in Atlanta.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Ehnie, who also attended the convention, are expected home tonight.

WILL CAMP AT SAIDORA.

A party of boys will leave this morning, where they have engaged the club house for a week and are planning for an enjoyable outing. The party will include Charles Cobb, Jr., Leo, Joe and William Sehy, Clarence and Reginald Sauer and George Leonard.

MATRIMONIAL

Cannon-Sellers.

Saturday evening at seven o'clock a pretty wedding was solemnized in the Catholic parsonage, the Rev. Father Formaz officiating, when Miss Lottie Sellers of Chicago, became the bride of Mr. John Cannon. The affair was very quiet only a few friends being present.

The bride is an attractive young woman and is especially well liked by all who know her here. She also has a large circle of friends in Chicago.

Mr. Cannon won special prominence as an athlete in the high school and has since shown ability in the business positions he has held.

The young people will leave this evening for Detroit, where they will spend two weeks. After that they will return to this city, to make their home here.

The friends of both these young people will wish them much happiness in their married life.

INJURED IN RUNAWAY

Tom Woodson, colored, was badly injured Saturday afternoon, when a heavy loaded wagon passed over his body. The accident occurred on Reid street, between North West and Church streets, and was caused by the slipping of the wagon seat. Thus frightened the horses bolted, and Woodson was thrown under the wheels. All four wheels passed over his body crushing his chest rather badly. Patrolman Baker took the injured man to Passavant Hospital. The extent of the injuries has not been fully determined.

HAVE YOU Made a Will?

Do you realize that if you do not dispose of your property by WILL, your estate may be disposed of by law very differently from the way you would wish? The law respecting estates for which no will has been made, takes no account of the special personal needs of each beneficiary.

Perhaps one of your heirs may not be well qualified to care for property, and it should be placed in trust for him; or, perhaps circumstances may make it advisable that one heir should receive a larger share than the others; or that the property should be given to him in a different form from that given others. But, unless a WILL is made, each heir must share the property in accordance with the rigid provisions of the law.

When you make your WILL why not assure efficient and economical management of your estate by appointing The Farmers State Bank and Trust Company as executor and trustee? The Company has all the qualifications of a competent trustee, including assured existence throughout generations of beneficiaries. It has qualifications which no individual can possess. Moreover, the cost of its specialized and competent service is no greater than the uncertain service of an individual trustee.

The officers of the Company will be glad to confer with you, regarding this important matter, or any other trust or banking business you have in mind.

ALUMNAE OF ACADEMY MEET FOR THE ANNUAL RE-UNION

Much Interest Attends Business Sessions and Luncheon—Old Custom Is Revived in Evening Concert.

Alumnae of the Jacksonville Female Academy, Athenaeum and Conservatory met for the annual reunion Saturday at Academy hall. A profitable business session was followed by the annual alumnae luncheon, served by Hood & Larson in the dining hall. A concert of high merit was enjoyed by alumnae and friends during the evening hours in recital hall.

Miss Carrie Dunlap, the president, opened the afternoon meeting, calling upon Mrs. T. M. Tomlinson for the secretary's report and upon Miss Anne McCormick for the report of the treasurer. The present amount in the treasury is $61.60. Mrs. T. P. Carter called attention to the work of Illinois college women toward the $10,000 Women's Building fund and upon motion of Miss Mabel Goltra, the society voted a sum of $50 per year for five years toward the fund. The alumnae sent greetings to two members kept away by illness, Miss Sue Ellis and Mrs. W. D. Sanders.

The following report of the nominating committee was unanimously adopted:

President—Miss Maria Fairbanks.
Vice president—Mrs. Walter Belatti.

Secretary—Miss Idella Walton.
Treasurer—Miss Nellie Cunningham.

The Evening Concert.

After the supper the association took up again a tradition which has not been observed since 1904. Before the formation of the present Alumnae Association which included graduates of the Academy, Athenaeum and Conservatory, it was the custom of the Conservatory Alumnae to give at each commencement season an alumnae concert. This year, that custom was revived. The program committee had planned a recital by the alumnae and members of the faculty of the Illinois College Conservatory.

The first number was for two pianos. Variations on a theme of Beethoven by Saint-Saens, played by Miss Ruth Duncan and Mr. Edmund Munger. The number proved most enjoyable. It was played with excellent ensemble, great variety of tone and an interpretation that was musical indeed.

Second on the program came Mrs. Read's first group of songs, two by Brahms, sung in German the third by Saint-Saens, sung in French. The two Brahms songs were strongly contrasted and Mrs. Read entered thoroughly into spirit of both compositions, maintaining successfully the gaiety of the Serenade and the stern gravity of the "Death in the cool night." The lovely "La Cloche" of Saint-Saens is particularly well suited to Mrs. Read's warm, vibrant voice. She sang it superbly. Mrs. Bullard's accompaniments were, as always, sympathetic and sustaining. The difficult French song she played brilliantly and with beautiful tone. An encore was demanded by the enthusiastic audience, and the singer gave "I've been roaming," charmingly.

Third in order was a group of violin solos played by Mr. Dean Cochran. Mr. Cochran's playing this spring is surpassing the work he has done in past years. In the delicacy of Les Parfades by Pente, the dreamy mood of the Reverie, his second number, written by Miss Carrie Dunlap, and the pathos depicted in the Liebesleid (Love's Sorrow) by Kreisler, his tone was always charmingly adequate. He played for an encore Viennese Melody, also by Kreisler.

Mr. Kritch, Mr. Cochran, Miss Dunlap and Mr. Beebe played two movements of a string quartette by Mr. Kritch, the Scherzo and Allegro Moderato. This was only the second time that this composition has been heard in Jacksonville, and even more than at its first performance, the quartette commanded interest and called forth enthusiastic applause. The Scherzo movement is full of imagery and bewitching figures that suggest voices of the woodland. The Allegro Moderato is more serious in its mood and is built upon themes that are very simple and appealing.

Mr. Munger's two selections were beautifully contrasted. The Nocturne in F sharp major he played with extreme delicacy and beauty of tone, that made this much loved work of Chopin's a gem on the evening's program. His rendition of the 2nd Rhapsodie was dramatic and forceful and satisfying to a degree.

The audience insisted upon another number from Mr. Munger and he played in response to their demand a nocturne by Tschakowsky.

Next on the program Mrs. Read appeared again, singing three English songs of varied character. The Campbell-Tipton song was particularly striking and was sung with great fervor and impressive intensity. The "Birthday Song" by Cadman was a cry of rapture, and Mrs. Read revealed the peculiar colorful quality of her voice as well as its power and splendid vitality. Again her hearers asked for more, and she graciously responded with arrangement of the ever-popular "Humoresque" by Dvorak. The ensemble of singer and accompaniment was a delight to hear.

The first movement of Oscar Franck's quintet in F minor, the last number on this interesting program was played by Mr. Kritch, Mr. Cochran, Miss Dunlap, Mr. Beebe and Mr. Munger. This number, too, long held the attention to the last, containing as it does such variety of mood and thought and opportunity for dramatic interpretation. The ensemble was particularly good.

BLYTHE SAYS CRANE? NOMINATED HUGHES

of sorrow extending for the entire campaign and then some, with the mourning ceremonies each and every day, certainly would have been held. Uncle Murray circulated with his Hughes obsession.

The old guard tried combination and combination, but there was no chance, for every way they went they were met with the blighting fact that Crane held to it to be the only solution to nominate Hughes. "Mercy," said Uncle Murray in his most forceful whisper which can be heard two feet if one's hearing is good, but gets results just the same. "Mercy, suppose we hold that nomination open for several days. Just as likely as not Roosevelt will come in here and undo all our work. We cannot afford to take a remote chance. We must hurry right along and nominate Hughes."

Crane Ahead of Old Guard.

The old guard planned and intrigued and tried to combine and used all the old stuff, but they got nowhere, because always Uncle Murray Crane was two laps ahead of them advocating the immediate nomination of Hughes as the only salvation against a successful assault from Roosevelt. He did not want Hughes but he saw earliest that party leaders would be obliged to take him or Roosevelt and he was for Hughes.

Along the middle of the week the old guard, as related, blew up. They could not withstand the relentless whispered certainty of Crane that Hughes must be nominated whether they liked him or not.

Since that time there were spasmodic efforts to get together on some other candidate, but always there was Murray Crane sibilantly assuring them that there was no other solution but Hughes.

The favorite sons yowled and howled and the old guard wept bitterly over the prospect, but Uncle Murray, becoming more and more scared of Roosevelt every day, grew lion-hearted for Hughes and so the deed was done at the Coliseum today by a convention that was not enthusiastic but serious, most serious for that convention realized what the millionaire politicians who were for Root and all others do not realize because of their strabismic view of the nation. It will be a man's job for a real man to defeat President Wilson next fall.

It was no gay and light-hearted assemblage that named Hughes. It was a convention of men who knew the size of the task they have and its difficulties and they realize that every ounce of Republican effort that they have must be exerted.

T. R. Runs True to Form.

Meanwhile Colonel Roosevelt ran entirely true to form. He remained in loyal and steadfast support of his favorite candidate—himself—until a short time before Hughes was nominated, when he suggested the name of Henry Cabot Lodge. The answer to that from the Republican convention was the nomination of Hughes, and the Progressives, who have not entirely lost their sense of proportion, say the colonel will find his adequate opportunity to support Hughes.

This closes this last chapter of the story of this obvious adventure in national politics and there have been but three big outstanding facts. The first is, that notwithstanding the fear of Uncle Murray Crane, there never was a chance in the Republican convention for the nomination of Roosevelt and the second is that Hughes has always been in the commanding position. The third fact is that the greatest single influence working for the nomination of Hughes was the moral terror of Crane that Roosevelt might throw a monkeywrench into their carefully built machine and his insistence that it would be necessary to make Justice Hughes chief engineer and in a hurry to prevent the damage and humiliation and chagrin and utter discredit that would thus occur.

ANOTHER DEEP CUT THIS WEEK IN CLOTH AND SILK SUITS AND COATS AT HERMAN'S.

He was for several years president of the Brown University Club of New York, a trustee of B'nai B'rith University and a trustee of the Fifth Avenue Baptist church in New York. He is a member of the Lawyers, Republican, University, Union League and Cornell University Clubs and the American, New York State and New York City Bar associations.

Tho in official life Hughes is known as a hard worker, in private life he is buoyant, fond of books of all kinds, music and golf, besides being a mountain climber who has been over most of Switzerland on foot.

Emerson Disc Cultivator

This is not an ordinary cultivator, but one with improvements that are far in advance of anything before shown on a tool. One very particular feature never before embodied in a disc cultivator is the point of draft as applied to the disc gang. The gangs are pivoted to the beam coupling between the first and second discs in such a way that the pivot is exactly at the center point of draft in all three discs. This makes the discs operate with greater ease and do better work.

The beams work independently. You can finish a row even if it only allows plowing one side, or one side can be run deeper if necessary.

Positive foot control, which does away entirely with a hand lever. The feet control the machine with ease, leaving the hands free to handle the team. Hard oil cups. Dust proof axle bearings. In fact, this is a cultivator that is built Right, sold Right, and one that is always Right.

COLORED LAD IS SHOT TO DEATH

REVOLVER BULLET STRUCK STANFORD SUTTON'S HEART

Shooting Occurred at Early Hour Sunday Morning on West Morgan Street—Four Companions of Dead Boy Arrested—Details of Shooting Are Lacking.

McKinley Harrison, a twenty year old colored youth admitted to Captain Sharpe, when placed under arrest early this morning that he fired the shot that killed Stanford Sutton.

Harrison said the shooting was accidental.

As result of the promiscuous "toting" of guns Sanford Sutton is dead and several boys are locked in the police station suspected of knowing who committed the crime. The shooting occurred Sunday morning about 1 o'clock in front of the Ward building just west of the large boot which marks the location of the shoe repairing shop of Burton and Clark Sutton ran a short distance and fell in the street at the mouth of Broadway alley. Walter Patterson and "Logger" Harrison helped him up and placed him in the doorway of the Ward building. When it was seen that he was perhaps fatally wounded Harrison carried him to Dr. Kenniebrew's hospital.

Bullet Struck Heart. Sutton was placed on the porch but before Dr. Kenniebrew reached him he was dead. Examination showed that the bullet had entered the breast just to the right of the center and came out under the left arm. The bullet severed the large artery and Dr. Kenniebrew was of the opinion that it hit the top of the heart.

The news of the shooting spread rapidly and the police were soon on the scene. Four boys were placed under arrest and taken to the station. They were Willie Swar, Howard Hok, Edward Simpson and Roy Bryant. All of the boys were with Sutton when he was shot except Swar. However, none of them would talk, all saying that they did not know who did the shooting. Swar said that he had just stepped out of Patterson's pool room when he heard the shot.

There is some discrepancy in the details of the shooting. Some of those near said there was a quarrel. Henry Basket, who operates a hamburger stand just across the street from where the shooting occurred, said that he saw the crowd but did not hear any argument.

After the shooting Captain Sharpe went to the scene and after a search found the shell and the bullet. It was a 38 calibre. Captain Sharpe also discovered a $2 bill beneath the grating in front of the Ward building but it is not probable that it has any connection with the shooting affair.

The police are of the opinion that the shooting might be accidental. Sutton had a revolver of 22 calibre which was found under him when he was picked up. Evidently the revolver was almost against Sutton's body when it was discharged as the flesh and clothing showed powder burns.

When Dr. Kenniebrew pronounced Sutton dead Coroner Wright was notified and had the body removed to the undertaking parlors of J. G. Reynolds. An inquest will be held Monday.

Sutton was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Sutton and lived with his parents on Lorton street. He was about 18 years of age and so far as is known was a hard working boy. He recently had been employed by William Nunes.

Boys May Give Details. All of the boys under arrest are young, range in age from probably 18 to 20 years. None of them so far as is known has a bad reputation. It is the opinion of the police that when they decide to talk the truth in the matter will be known as it is believed that all of them know who did the shooting and what caused led up to it.

By a strange coincidence this shooting also occurred Sunday morning. It has only been a few weeks since that Ralph McDonald was killed in Independence avenue in the First Ward.

EARL W. RICHARDSON ADMITTED TO GUILD OF PIANO TUNERS

Earl W. Richardson has received word of his success in passing an examination admitting him to the American Guild of Piano Tuners. The fact that Mr. Richardson passed with a high grade was a double source of gratification as the guild is known the country over for its insistence upon the best workmanship and for honest and courteous service.

In the absence of state regulation for piano tuners the "Guild" is a safeguard of no little importance, furnishing the piano owner a means of knowing whom to trust. As a means of identification and an evidence of his good faith and reliability, each authorized "Guild Tuner" carries a membership certificate. Guild membership is limited and no unskilled tuner is permitted entrance.

HAS RUNAWAY

Roy Young of Arcadia was a victim of a runaway yesterday afternoon. He was on his way to this city and as he reached the top of the hill, north of the long bridge on North Main street, his horse became frightened. In trying to stop the animal the line became caught, and in some manner broke in two. By this time they had reached the bridge, and Mr. Young decided it was time to jump. He proceeded to do so, and as a result he received a slight injury to his knee. The horse was caught on North Main street, near Thompson's store, with no other damage than a broken buggy spoke.

TO TEAR OUT COUNTY FARM BRIDGE

The county commissioners have decided to tear out the long bridge, commonly known as the "county farm" bridge. The entire bridge will be taken out, and a dirt road will be graded up to the drainage ditch. This is a very commendable plan on the part of the commissioners, as the old bridge has long been a menace to heavy haulers. The contract for tearing out the bridge and for the grading has been awarded to the firm of Williamson and Blackburn. They will begin work the first part of this week.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

The Democratic convention is to convene this week at St. Louis and altho interest is not nearly so intense as was true of the Republican convention last week, all eyes will be turned toward St. Louis, the convention city. M. F. Dunlap is one of the delegates from this district and Jacksonville will also be represented by Judge Owen P. Thompson.

Hughes for their consideration as a candidate on which both conventions could unite. He also read the reply of the Progressive conferees which merely was an acknowledgment of receipt of the proposal. Then he read Colonel Roosevelt's telegram to the Progressive convention which had been brought to the Coliseum by John McGrath, the colonel's secretary suggesting Senator Lodge.

Progressives Valuable Proposals.

Before he had finished the reading word came and was announced in the Coliseum that the Progressive convention itself had not only tabled the Republican proposal of Mr. Hughes but had tabled Colonel Roosevelt's own proposal of Senator Lodge as well. No one in the Republican convention really expected Colonel Roosevelt's compromise to be accepted, neither did they feel the Progressives would accept Mr. Hughes.

There was a gallery demonstration, not so prolonged as yesterday's, at the announcement of Colonel Roosevelt's proposition but the delegate section by its silence plainly showed its indifference and if any of the Republican managers entertained the least fear of a stampede to Colonel Roosevelt it was dissipated at once by every outward indication that about the only message from Colonel Roosevelt that could have roused the delegates to any degree of enthusiasm would have been his acceptance of Hughes.

With that the roll call of states began and there never was a moment's doubt of the result from the time the clerk began.

With the end of the balloting for the presidential nomination and the official announcement by Chairman Harding the balloting for vice-president began. In view of Mr. Hitchcock's expressed preference for former Senator Burton there was some surprise when Governor Willis of Ohio withdrew Burton's name and cast the whole block of Ohio votes for Fairbanks. That left Burkett as the only candidate with any pledged strength and he was urged upon the convention as meeting the call of the west for representation on the ticket.

Delegates Begin Leaving

As the roll call proceeded who's blocks of votes piled in for Fairbanks and his nomination was such a foregone conclusion among the delegates themselves that they began leaving the hall and causing such confusion that the balloting was heard with difficulty.

After Chairman Harding had officially announced the nomination of Mr. Fairbanks, resolutions were passed thanking the officers of the convention and the entertainment provided for delegates by the city of Chicago; some national committee selections were announced and ratified by the convention, Chairman Hill called a meeting of the new National committee for organization and the convention adjourned.

Convention Notable for Many Things
The convention was notable in political history for many things. A man who steadfastly had refused to seek the nomination had been chosen; it left a new milestone in the paths of both the Republican and Progressive parties. It was the first Republican convention since 1888 which had been forced to take more than one ballot to agree upon a candidate and it has been marked by a lack of riotous demonstration, and nervous enthusiasm which hitherto has been a feature of such gatherings.

It did not touch any of the existing records for sustained demonstrations but despite the fact that in political vernacular it was wholly and decidedly "unbossed," it moved with a precision and quietness which has not been equalled since the McKinley convention in Philadelphia.

Robins Reads T. R.'s Message
Auditorium, Chicago, June 10.—Colonel Roosevelt was nominated by the Progressive national convention after four days of uproar and tumult in which the delegates never wavered in allegiance or cast a passing glance upon another man. Three minutes before the convention adjourned another time, Chairman Raymond Robins read to them a brief message from Oyster Bay in which Mr. Roosevelt declined to accept the nomination at this time. Few of the thousands in the vast auditorium, some of whom had seen the colonel named in an even wilder burst of enthusiasm four years ago, realized, when Robins rapped his gavel at 4:55 and declared the convention adjourned sine die, that in a few hours or a few weeks they

Col. Harvey Had Right Line on Hughes Sentiment

In the current number of the North American Review Mr. George Harvey, the editor, has a very interesting article under the caption, "Vox Populi." In this article Mr. Harvey, long acquainted with American politics, after reviewing editorials which have appeared the country over, and accounting in some measure for the growth of sentiment favoring the nomination of Charles E. Hughes by the Republican party, hazarded the guess that Mr. Hughes would be nominated on the second ballot. Mr. Harvey missed his guess by one ballot, but in the light of all the circumstances the editorial is of special interest now. Particular attention is called to Mr. Harvey's statement of the attitude of the executive committee of the Progressive party toward the Hughes candidacy. This statement is borne out by the attitude of Colonel Roosevelt as outlined in his reply to the Progressive convention. Mr. Harvey's article follows:

We present elsewhere in this Review evidence, drawn from the editorial pages of the leading public journals, of accuracy of our deductions that, "Never since this republic became its first president has there appeared so striking an instance of the office seeking the man; that 'Never has been a call so preemptory,' never 'a constantly swelling force so certain to prove irresistible' and that 'rightly or wrongly, wisely or not, the will of the people will prevail, and Charles Evans Hughes will be the next Republican candidate for president of the United States.'" There is little to add now to the statement of facts which was then set forth in justification of the opinion thus definitely expressed. The only change has taken place during the past month, partly in consequence of that publication, is to be found in the growing concreteness of a sentiment whose very spontaneity involved a certain vagueness, what was apparent had become real, the hardly perceptible movement has taken form and has acquired strength in such measure that scoffing from whatever source has yielded to irresistible conviction.

Recent political happenings have served only to confirm the judgment advanced somewhat in advance of common recognition. Massachusetts led the way with an emphatic repudiation of the bogeyman in the face of a vigorous and expensive canvass; the hard thinking native-born farmers to the north promptly followed with a vote of two to one for the man who was not a candidate; within a week Oregon, in the felicitous words of our neighbor, The Sun, "signalled back to Vermont" from across the continent with an overwhelming majority for Hughes, over the two leading western candidates who had made active personal campaigns; Kansas swung into line "to a man"; twelve members of the Wisconsin delegation followed suit; Michigan whose primaries had been carried for Ford, with but one dissenting vote out of 1400 in state convention, pronounced Hughes her second and real choice; Nebraska put aside both her favorite son and her neighbor; Minnesota responded no less readily,—and so on.

Simultaneously a poll of the Republican members of the house of representatives showed 62 for Hughes to 11 each for Burton and Cummins and 10 for Roosevelt, and a remarkable test by the Literary Digest of Republican members of state legislatures produced 894 for Hughes, 252 for Roosevelt and 181 for Root.

"But," remarked the Boston Transcript quite truly from its own standpoint as an earnest advocate for the nomination of Mr. Hughes, "The best omen in the political development of the day is the announcement from New York that the Progressive executive committee report the Progressive party as ready to support Justice Hughes on two conditions, first, that the Republicans refuse to nominate Colonel Roosevelt. Second, that the declaration of principles which Mr. Hughes will make immediately after his acceptance of the Republican nomination, and his resignation from the bench, proves him to be in sympathy with the principles of Americanism for which the Progressives under Mr. Roosevelt's leadership are fighting. No reasonable Republican, having the welfare of the nation at heart could ask for more at this time from the Progressive organization. No reasonable Progressive can find fault with the Americanism which Mr. Hughes would champion were he free to declare himself."

And the distinguished editor of the Hartford Courant, himself a delegate-at-large to the convention, added pointedly respecting the Progressive announcement:

That may be taken as a purely formal condition. The Progressives would not have made such a statement, even with the condition attached, if they had not believed that it could be easily complied with. They know pretty well in advance what Justice Hughes stands for in public life. The tentative promise to support him is, in fact, an expression of confidence, and this confidence in him will be his strength in the convention and before the people. Whether or not he is to be the choice of the convention no man can now say, but there are few, if any, who doubt that, if he should be nominated, his election would be practically a foregone conclusion.

But as a seeker of truth and light we would not attach undue importance to the views of those whose predilections may impair their vision. While cheerfully recognizing the political sagacity of both the Courant and the Transcript, which was the first to herald the inevitableness of Mr. Hughes, we have long suspected Dr. Charles Hopkins Clark of Republican leanings and of late we have found that Mr. James T. Williams, Jr.'s criticism of our present administration so very strongly helpful as to be most disquieting. We turn instinctively for guidance, therefore, to members of the family whose fidelity to forward-looking ideals is hardly less questionable than that of Colonel House himself. Of these the first and foremost, of course, is Dean Henry Watterson, who is firmly convinced that Mr. Roosevelt will be nominated but not elected, only to be removed from the White House at some distant day "feet first."

Then comes the World, the didactic leader of the administration press, whose president, Mr. Ralph Pulitzer, is to attend the St. Louis convention as a delegate and be voted as a segment of Mr. Charles F. Murphy's "unit." That, however, like the Charleston judge's wife, is "a circumstance over whom one has no control." The point is that Mr. Cobb agrees with Mr. Watterson that probably the Republicans will surrender to our Colonel and declares further with marked positiveness that in no conceivable instance can the nomination go to Mr. Hughes. There are "four obstacles" in the way. The first is "the undisputed position of the Old Guard, which knows that if elected he will smash the machine." The second is Theodore Roosevelt "who knows that the nomination of Mr. Hughes would end his own political career." These are obstacles no doubt; also to many minds they are most excellent reasons. Then there are the "misgivings about the propriety of nominating a Justice of the Supreme Court" and the lack of confirmation respecting Mr. Hughes' opinions, etc., etc.

So the situation appeared to the World on May 12th. A week later, altho the intervening Vermont primaries signified "nothing so far as the Hughes candidacy is concerned," and "all reports of a drift toward Hughes, or toward anybody, except as the Republican leaders start it or stop it are nonsense," oddly enough the Roosevelt movement had actually "petered out." Finally, on May 23rd we learned that "Roosevelts Boy Scouts are not making their last drive against the Hughes candidacy," but that "where the rank and file has had a chance to express itself it has shown a decided preference for mind over noise." In other words, not unfamiliar to our readers, "nobody wants Hughes—but the people," and the World, to its credit be it said, believing that "what the United States requires most of all is not less brains but more brains in its political leadership," would now "welcome the nomination of Justice Hughes by the Republican convention."

Frankly, the World could hardly do less without discredit to its creator. Joseph Pulitzer evinced his opinion of Mr. Hughes when he in his will designated him as a trustee of his estate. The duties were nominal. The fee was $100,000. Mr. Hughes is a poor man. Nobody would have dreamed of criticizing him for accepting the appointment. He declined it without hesitation upon the ground that a public official has no right to accept remuneration from private sources,—not even a Carnegie pension, for which, as a former Professor in Cornell University, he might, of course, have applied.

From the converted World we turn to the nuregenerate Times, only to be lost in a fog of bewilderment. "A Strange Room," it calls the general uprising for Hughes, and proceeds impatiently:

"There is a great clatter, a sort of accelerated and pumped-up enthusiasm about the so-called Hughes boom. Colonel George Harvey hears it in every breeze, demands it himself, and forthwith translates himself into 'the people,' 'the man in the street,' and so on. How are you going to find out the opinion of 8,000,000 Republican voters? A 'straw vote,' the writing in of Mr. Hughes' name on certain primary tickets, always at the suggestion of some Republican editor or politician, a newspaper vote; such is the gauge of the voice of the people." This was on May 17th. Four days later, however, we read:

"The Times was wrong about Hughes. The people are calling him 'The German people.'"

"The German people"—of Vermont and Oregon, which have a larger percentage of native-born citizens than any two states in the union. But let the Times proceed:

"The continuing use of the name of an Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court as a pawn of politicians is coming to be, is becoming, offensive and painful to those Americans who believe that a Justice of that tribunal should have no part or lot in politics. What public confidence can it keep if the path from it to the White House is not barred as it always has been barred? Decisions for political motives—that is what will be the fact or the belief if the Supreme Court is a training ground of Presidents. Never has a president been taken thence. Never will one be taken thence, unless a great tradition, which stands on the impregnable necessity of keeping the Supreme Court out of politics, is violated."

Mr. Justice Hughes must see that the spectacle of his robes fluttering in the winds of rumor or rustling up the back stairs of deal and combination is unseemly. If he takes his boom seriously he should get off the bench."

Can it be that the Times forgot

OREGON HIGH SCHOOL CAPTURES CHICAGO INTERCOLLESTIC MEET

CHICAGO, June 10.—The fifteenth annual Chicago interscholastic track and field meet was won by the Oregon High School, Landers and Loomis who scored a total of 37 points.

Contrary to expectations only one record was broken this being the high jump in which Adams of Manteno High and Pratt of Lane Tech cleared the bar and hung a new mark of 6 feet, 3.16 inches.

Sherman Landers was the individual star of the meet winning three firsts, two seconds and one third, a total of 26 points, thereby proving himself one of the greatest all-around prep athletes that ever participated in a Chicago interscholastic. Loomis, the team mate or Landers scored eleven points.

Alman of Urbana was second in the number of individual points with 15 to his credit, winning second place in the meet for Urbana high.

Medals were awarded individual point winners in each event.

MAVERICKS

Perhaps the Junes of other years, Were filled with days of summer glow But the one that's with us now appears To be filled with rain and wind and snow.

Keystone speeches are hard to make if the instrument is out of tune.

A New York sporting writer in sizing up the chances of the National league teams in the pennant race says there is too much age hanging around Forbes field in Pittsburgh and in the same breath says that Hans Wagner can't play the whole infield. Imagine classing Wagner in the recruit class.

A New York woman is suing William Smith of the Waldorf Astoria for breach of promise and asks for a million dollars. Broken hearts come as high as anything else in New York.

Color in This Firm

Frank McClain is remodeling his house. He has the Dark Bros. doing the work for him.

The Democratic convention in St. Louis promises to be about as exciting as a game of ping pong.

One would think after reading some of the stories sent out by newspaper correspondents from Chicago that there was a hosiery show in Chicago instead of a political convention.

Arguments are dangerous in these days of war and political conventions. The other day a couple of gentlemen in one of the hotels started to talk with each other in a casual manner. Before a half dozen sentences had been passed they were into an argument about the war and it waxed rather warm for awhile.

Judging from reports from the Chicago convention Uncle Joe Cannon and Chauncey M. DePew are still able to sit up and take nourishment.

One would think after reading the convention oratory that Americanism had nearly ceased to exist in the country. However, it will be found that when the test comes nearly every man born under the flag is not only a good citizen but lives Americanism in his daily life.

Who won the battle between the English and Germans in the North sea, seems to be a much mooted question. We think we know but are afraid to express our opinions publicly.

The Chicago hotel keepers evidently believe in preparedness. They boosted the rates for convention week to double the regular price.

They are so Searce

The real "good fellow" is the fellow who knows something good about everyone and tells it. If he hears something bad he keeps his mouth shut. He'll never knock on his neighbor or dig up the past. He always lends a helping hand to the fellow who is trying to knock him off the ladder with a brick, and he never forgets to say and do the little things that help make the life of those about him happy.

NOTES FROM Y. M. C. A. CAMP

Lake Matanzas, Ill., June 9. Thursday, 10 a. m.—Track meet.

The road has been newly dragged and was in fine shape for the dashes. Everything was held from the five yard dash to the quarter mile. The real stunt was the relay race which was won by Puddin' Wilkinson's team.

12 m.—Dinner and all hands on deck with their appetites in good shape.

1 to 4 p. m.—It rained most of the afternoon and the time was spent in reading, sleeping, etc.

4 p. m.—All the fellows rallied to help get a big oil truck out of a big hole in the road.

4:30 p. m.—Peruna Brew pulled in a four pound black bass on a throw line. Everyone is envious of him now.

6 p. m.—Supper.

8 p. m.—Night Owl Reeve, Possum Summers, Peruna Brew and some of the smaller fellows start down the dark road to Duerickers.

They were singing and having a jolly time only to be suddenly halted by two rough looking men who commanded them to hold up their hands.

It was a tragical moment and every fellow shivered in his boots till Possum Summers tumbled that it was Mulligan Reek and Chilli Bartlett. They were dressed as thugs and carried their part out to a finish.

4:30 Friday—Night Owl Reeve and Chilli Bartlett arise and try some mischief but Peruna Brew and Jackson the cook awake just in time to foil them.

7 a. m.—Breakfast.

9 a. m.—Round table—Bible discussion on Joseph. Business session.

9 a. m.—Puddin' Wilkinson and Noise Cummings depart for the other side of the lake with a boat load of tin cans, etc.

9:15—The campers take an exploration trip to the north end of the lake. Some pictures were taken and some souvenirs were procured.

12 m.—Dinner. Mr. Larry Starkweather and Mr. Mullin were guests for dinner. Chicken and dumplings on the bill of fare. Yum, Yum. Noise Cummings and Patty Smith each gained eight pounds.

1 p. m.—All the campers hiked to the north end of the lake on a turkey hunt.

TWO HOUR STOCK SESSION IS SUPERFICIAL AND PERFUNCTORY

Trading is Exceedingly Light and Narrow With a Mixture of Advances and Declines.

New York, June 10.—The two hour session of the stock today was superficial and perfunctory at best, an eye being again directed toward Chicago. Trading was exceedingly light and narrow, with a mixture of advances and declines, specialties helping largely to hold up the recent level of averages. Rails were an important factor with slight heaviness in Reading, Chesapeake and Ohio, Southern Pacific and Southern railway, which was neutralized and further advances in Colorado Southern and St. Louis Southwestern preferred issues.

United States Steel equalled its recent high quotation at the outset but yielded fractionally before the publication of the May tonnage statement. Total sales of stocks amounted to 193,000 shares. The statement of the local clearing house banks was the most interesting exhibited for a long time with an actual loan contraction of $61,579,000 and a decrease of over $73,000,00 in demand deposits while reserves showed their first gain in seven weeks, increasing $16,422,960 and bringing the excess item up to $72,273,300.

Reviews of the Mercantile agencies announced recessions from past feverish activity for the time being, although leading industries continue to exceed their production of previous years and wholesale distribution of general merchandise remains broad. Dealings in bonds today were nominal and confined to better known issues. Total sales par value were $1,100,000. United States coupon 4s advanced 1/8, registered 3/4 and Pan American 3s 1/4 percent on call during the week.

NEW YORK PROVISION MARKET.

New York, June 10.—With the spot market closed trading in the market for sugar future was quieter today but the undertone was firmer on covering due to the firmer spot position and to reports that exporters were in the market late yesterday for both raw and refined sugar.

FAILURE OF EUROPEAN MARKETS TO RESPOND DEPRESSES WHEAT

Close is Heavy at 2 1/2 to 3 Cents Net Lower—Corn and Oats Also Show Losses.

Chicago, June 10.—Wheat prices underwent a sharp decline today mainly as a result of the failure of European markets to respond to yesterday's advance on this side of the Atlantic. The close here was heavy 2 1/2 to 3c net lower with July at $1.04 and Sept at $1.05. Corn finished 1/2 to 3/4c down, oats off 1/2 to 3/4c and provisions varying from 17c decline to a rise of two cents. Better weather conditions and the break in the wheat market carried down corn. It was said too that the urgency of cash demand in the south west had subsided to a noticeable extent. Trade in oats was for the most part local and was guided by the bearish action of other grain. Provisions averaged lower in the absence of any demand. Yesterday's buyers led the selling.

KANSAS CITY LIVE-STOCK MARKET.

WIVELY WILL CELEBRATE THE FOURTH OF JULY

Two Instructors Engaged for Township High School—Several News Notes.

Preparations are being made for a Fourth of July celebration in Waverly. An extensive program will be carried out.

Rev. and Mrs. H. M. Ellis left Wednesday for a visit of two weeks at Marietta and Rushville. Mrs. Ellis will also hold quarterly meetings there, and Rev. W. Mathis will occupy the Waverly pulpit during his absence.

Misses Lila Shadd, Dorotay Gehaf, Gladys Ellem and Hazel Kennedy of Beardstown came last week for a visit with Miss Hattie Prickett. Miss Kennedy expects to remain a month, the others having returned after a few days' visit.

Mrs. Lee McCracken and baby returned Wednesday from Virden, where they had spent several days. The N. G. U. class of the Christian church held a business meeting and social in the basement of the church Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Wemple and son, Warren of Prospect spent Sunday in Waverly.

Miss Lucy Lewis spent the first part of the week in White Hall.

Mrs. W. H. Rohrer and Mrs. Henry Horton were Springfield visitors Wednesday.

Mrs. Will Teany of Franklin was a shopper in Waverly Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Joseph Campbell returned from a visit with friends in Jacksonville.

Miss Virginia Cumming of Jacksonville is spending this week as the guest of Miss Opal Redfern.

Miss Elizabeth Foster visited this week with Mr. and Mrs. Lester Reed near Pisgah.

Mrs. Jane Hinckle of Springfield was in Waverly Wednesday, enroute from Palmyra to Girard.

Miss Edna Babcock of Lafayette, Indiana, arrived in Waverly Wednesday for a visit with Miss Corrine Hughes.

Mr. E. B. Wyle and son Armin attended the State Druggists' Convention in Springfield Wednesday.

Miss Helen Henry, who has been teaching in the Waverly schools, left Tuesday for her home in Peoria.

Angus Stice returned Wednesday afternoon from Champaign, where he has been attending the University of Illinois.

Morris Hamly of Auburn has arrived in Waverly to spend the summer at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Moffett. He will be employed in the First National Bank.

Rev. P. H. Aldrich, pastor of the Baptist church at Clinton, was in Waverly Thursday and Friday.

Miss Mary Narr went to Litchfield Wednesday to visit her grandmother, Mrs. Amelia Packin.

Alfred Dikes returned Friday from Champaign, where he has been attending Illinois University.

Miss Stella Leigh came down from Springfield Wednesday for a visit with Miss Carrie Root.

The ladies of the Catholic church will hold a market at Zoll's store Saturday afternoon.

The teachers of the Waverly schools are in Jacksonville this week attending the Morgan County Teacher's Institute.

J. A. DeFreitas of Chicago, a student at Northwestern University, was in Waverly Wednesday and Thursday, the guest of Carter Crain.

Mrs. Ada Rantz and little nephew, Calvert Simons returned Wednesday after a visit of a few days in Jacksonville at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Rogers.

Louis Hobaker returned Thursday after spending a few days in Litchfield.

T. H. Gibson and Dr. Walter H. Allyn left Wednesday for Chicago.

At a meeting of the township high school board of education two more teachers were hired, namely Miss Sedonia Sewald of Atkinson, Ill., and Miss Edith Gevenn of Martinsville, Minn.

GRACE CHAPEL.

The Willing Workers society met for regular monthly meeting with Misses May and Minnie McAdden Thursday afternoon. About twenty five members and guests were present. A splendid program was rendered after which the hostesses served all present with delicious refreshments. Three members were added to membership, making our number twenty five. Our society organized a little over a year ago with a membership of seven, and we feel that our society has been greatly strengthened.

Miss Della Goodpasture entertained the Concord M. P. Aid at her home Thursday afternoon and the Ladies Aid of Christian church met with Mrs. Warren Blimling the same date.

Alma Brockhouse of Concord visited her cousin Della Goodpasture the middle of the week.

Alma Vorhees is spending a few days with friends in Concord.

On account of inclement weather the supper at the Chapel was postponed until Saturday evening, June 17th. The Bazaar will be in connection with the supper, which will be ready at four o'clock and entertainment at 7:30.

Harry Brainer and wife visited Tuesday with Chas. Loughary and family.

Mr. Wm. Rooney and family spent Friday with relatives in Arenzville.

Mrs. Innie Vorhees visited Friday with Mrs. Margaret Smith.

Mrs. John Stuart who is visiting her daughter this week is indisposed at this writing.

Commissioner George Smith of road district No. 3 has been doing some good work on the highway. Several teams have been busy during the wet weather of the last five days straightening the road on the Brown hill near Indian creek which was not only inconvenient to teaming but dangerous since so many autos run the country roads.

CONSERVATORY NOTES.

The Conservatory closes its doors for the summer vacation on Saturday, June 10th, to reopen September 20th next. Mr. Kritch will remain here till about July 1st, when he plans to go to Michigan. Mrs. Wilson will remain in Jacksonville into July. Mr. Munger goes to his home in Xenia, Ohio. Mrs. Bullard expects to be at home for some time. Mr. Beebe will be in Springfield and Miss Duncan will spend part of her time in Mt. Sterling.

The music for the Baccalaureate service in Westminster church Sunday, June 11th, will be furnished by a double quartet composed of pupils from Mrs. Wilson's studio, consisting of Rebecca Scheibel, Esther Spooner, Mrs. Julian Hall, Lorine DeWeese, Harry Beckman, Robert Boyd, Edwin Gordon, Earl Pond.

The concert given by the Conservatory Orchestra, under Mr. Kritch, assisted by Mrs. Wilson, soprano soloist, took place last Friday evening in State Street church. It was well attended, considering the number of conflicting events, and the program passed off very smoothly, winning much applause from an enthusiastic audience. The proceeds will be devoted to the fund for the Women's building for Illinois college.

ILLINOIS COLLEGE NOTES

The Reverend Allan A. Tanner, D. D., of Denver, Judge Robert A. Campbell of Bowling Green, Mo., and Arthur B. Fairbank of Sioux Falls, South Dakota, are planning to return for the commencement week.

The class of '96 is expecting to enter the competition for the Alumni Reunion Trophy presented by the Chicago Society of Illinois College. The class will hold its twentieth anniversary supper at the Colonial Inn on Wednesday evening.

The Trustees, Faculty, graduating students, alumni, alumnae and also members of the present students body are urged to assemble promptly at 10:30 in the parlors of the Westminster church on Sunday for the baccalaureate procession. The baccalaureate address will be delivered by the Reverend Thomas Smith, D. D., of East Orange, N. J. The Reverend George C. Lenington, of Staten Island, New York, will speak at the vesper services. The latter service will be held in the commencement grove on the campus. If the weather is unfavorable, the service will be held in the Jones building.

All friends of the College are invited to the Oseage Orange picnic Monday evening. As in previous years, the College will furnish free coffee and a caterer will be on hand with ice cream.

Sigma Pi will hold its love feast Tuesday evening at the Colonial Inn; Gamma Delta at the Peacock Inn, and Sigma Phi Epsilon at the Colonial Inn.

Professor John A. Scott of Northwestern University, who will deliver the commencement address, is well known as one of the best Homer scholars of the United States. He is a very popular speaker in Evans-ton and Chicago.

POSITION IN EAST.

After delighting the members of the Baptist Sunday school by her delightful 'cello playing last Sunday, Miss Marie McHenry, who has been assisting in booking and clerical work for the Annie Laurie Girls Concert Co., has gone to Ohio to take a solo position with a Ladies Band, which opens the season at Atlantic City on the Million Dollar Pier. Miss McHenry will play tenor saxophone.

CHARGE CRIPPLE WITH MURDER OF GIRL WHO BEFRIENDED HIM

James O'Brien of Providence, R. I., Sticks to Story of Strange Shooting—Alleges Suicide.

Providence, R. I., June 10.—Charged with murdering pretty 19-year-old Beatrice Walter, the girl who had taken pity on him and befriended him because of his crippled condition, James O'Brien, aged 21, will be arraigned in court next Thursday. An inquest is being held. O'Brien claims that he is guiltless, and that the girl shot herself after a quarrel. The fact that all five chambers of the revolver were emptied is believed by the police to discount this story.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Walter, parents of the slain girl, emphatically deny that she committed suicide as claimed by the prisoner. They say she had everything to live for and was not the type of girl that would end her life. The neighbors and friends of the family confirm this belief.

The parents declare that O'Brien was jealous of the girl because another young man called on her. Because he had only one arm, and was thus handicapped in the battle of life, Miss Walter is said to have taken pity on him. They were firm friends, it was believed. The young man had been much petted by people in the vicinity. The slain girl worked in the same factory where O'Brien was employed.

William H. Walters, deputy inspector of steam boilers for the city of Providence, is positive his daughter did not kill herself. "The only reason why my daughter went walking with O'Brien occasionally was because she pitied him. She was not in love with him," says the father. "She would tell her mother that the young man was so lonesome she would consent to walk and talk with him."

The other young man who had been calling on Miss Walter may figure as an important witness in the trial. He has declared that O'Brien threatened him about the first of the year. He received a telephone message from him one afternoon, challenging him to fight. When the rival refused to fight, O'Brien told him over the phone, he says, that he would "fix him" if he met him on the street.

The killing took place on May 31 at the end of a walk which O'Brien took with Miss Walter. The accused man's story declares that they left the Walter home at about 8 o'clock in the evening. They sat down on the slope of a hill, and talked.

"I took the gun out of my pocket," says O'Brien, "and showed it to her. She took it, and as I turned away to look out over the harbor, she said, 'Oh, Jim, wouldn't it be great if we could die here together.' I said, 'Yes, I suppose so,' in a half-serious way, and the next thing I knew she had shot herself. I was scared and grabbed the gun, firing two shots at myself, neither of which took effect, as the buckle on my belt turned both bullets. The shock stunned me for a few minutes, but when I came to, and saw Beatrice lying down there, I realized what would happen and I knew I would be suspected. I fired two shots in the air to attract attention. When no one came, I ran to Beatrice's home and notified her father. He and I went back and found her. That's all I know about it. I don't know why she shot herself, and I did not know she was going to do it."

O'Brien holds to his story, although he has been grilled severely by the police during the past ten days. He denies that he left the scene of the shooting and then came back several hours later to note the condition of the girl. Also he denies that he said the shooting occurred two hours before he notified the par-

PREACHER'S ROAD IS ROUGH.

A preacher has a hard time. If his hair is gray, he is old. If he is a young man, he hasn't had experience. If he has ten children, he has too many. If he has none, he should have, and is not setting a good example. If his wife sings in the choir, she is presuming. If she does not she isn't interested in her husband's work. If a preacher reads from notes, he's a bore. If he speaks extemporaneously, he isn't deep enough. If he stays at home in his study, he doesn't mix with the people. If he is seen around on the streets, he ought to be at home getting up a good sermon. If he calls on a very poor family, he is playing to the grandstand. If he calls at the home of the rich, he is an aristocrat. Whatever he does someone could have told him how to do it better. He has a fine time living off donations which never come in, and promises that never mature.—Ex.

SEATTLE PARADES FOR PREPAREDNESS

Seattle, Wash., June 10.—Seattle's demonstration for American preparedness will take place this evening when a mammoth torch-light parade will march through the city. Starting at sun-down, the line will be in motion until midnight. The national guard will be in line, Spanish War Veterans will wear their old uniforms, and civic bodies will march en masse.

Production and Price

Do the great variety of Sixes and the fluctuating prices seem confusing and perplexing?

Let's reason it out.

What controls price? Production.

As a manufacturer's production increases, his production cost, per car, decreases.

Therefore the plant with the largest production is in a position to give more of everything and charge less for it.

We are the world's largest producers of Six and Four Cylinder Automobiles.

Consequently you get in the Overland Six a larger and more powerful motor—a longer wheel-base—the convenience of electric control buttons on the steering column and an almost endless list of other comforts and refinements.

—yet what is the price?

Not $1200 or $1300 but $1145.

And when it comes to a Six Cylinder performance, remember the Overland Six is the star of them all.

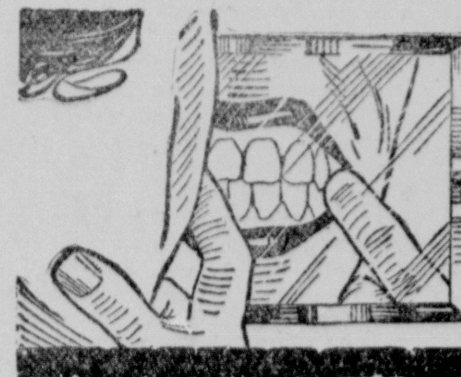

One ride will convince you.

You will find, in all probability, an accumulation of tartar on the enamel and bits of food deposit hiding between the crevices. YOUR DENTIFRICE does not FULLY CLEAN! Loss of teeth is caused usually by one of two conditions—Pyorrhea or decay, both of which develop, as a rule, only in the mouth where germ-laden tartar is present.

SENRECO, the recently discovered formula of a dental specialist, is two-fold in its action. First, it REALLY CLEANS, embodying specially prepared, soluble granules unusually effective in cleaning away food deposits. Second, it is particularly destructive to the germ of Pyorrhea. Yet it is perfectly safe, containing neither injurious chemicals nor hard grit.

SUFFRAGISTS TO PARADE FIRST DAY OF DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION

Adopt as their slogan, "A Woman in Line is Worth Ten Petitions in the Waste Basket."

St. Louis, June 10.—For their demonstration during the Democratic National convention here, suffragists have adopted as their slogan: "A woman in line is worth ten petitions in the waste basket."

The first day of the convention, Wednesday, June 14, will be suffragists' day.

A "golden lane", twelve blocks in length will be formed at 10 a. m. Lines of women wearing yellow and white sashes will be seated on camp stools along both edges of the sidewalks. Behind them will be a line of women standing. The women seated will carry closed yellow suffrage parasols across their laps, and those standing will carry them open, to protect themselves and their seated companions from the sun. The women will change places every fifteen minutes.

When the noon whistles begin to blow, the lines will break. Immediately after, members of the Baby Welfare Association, the Visiting Nurses Association and other organizations interested in baby welfare, will be hostesses at luncheon.

From three to five during the same afternoon the Women's Council will give an entertainment.

At 6:30 P. M. the Town Club will give a dinner at which visiting suffragists will be speakers. At 8 p. m., the Business Woman's Equal Suffrage league will take charge of a great demonstration on one of the principal St. Louis streets. Business and professional women and all those whose vocations prevent them from having a place in the golden lane will take part.

According to St. Louis leaders, the day as a whole will be a huge demonstration of the solidarity of women for women's interests.

BOY SCOUTS GO INTO PREPAREDNESS CAMP

YOUTHS WILL NOT BE GIVEN MILITARY DRILL

In Other Ways Camps Will Be Similar to Military Instruction Camps for Adults at Plattsburg, N. Y., and Other Places.

New York, June 10.—Nearly 200,000 boys will go into preparedness camps in all parts of the country this summer under the leadership of men identified with the Boy Scouts of America, according to an announcement made at the organization's headquarters here today. Military drill will not be given the boys but in other ways the camps will be very similar to the military instruction camps for adults at Plattsburg, N. Y., and other places.

An analysis of the program for the Plattsburg and similar camps promoted by General Leonard A. Wood reveals that fully three-quarters of the subjects and activities taken up in them are included in the Boy Scout scheme, the statement reads, "and they will be provided in this summer's boy scout camps, the first of which will open next week."

The aims in view, it is explained, are not only to build the boys physically, but to give them "knowledge and skill that will immeasurably increase their usefulness to their country in any crisis." Under this plan the following subjects are included in the course of instruction:

Camp-site selection, tent-pitching, drainage, sanitation, commissary equipment and management, fire lighting without matches, cooking, long-distance code signaling, setting up of field telegraph and wireless outfits, bridge-building, construction of signal and observation towers, fire fighting, swimming, rescue of drowning persons, resuscitation, managing boats, first aid to injured, observation and memory tests, map making and reading, exploration of unfamiliar territory, and despatch bearing. In addition the scouts will learn, largely through games and competitions which quicken boyish interest, a great deal about nature and will be taught to put into practice the code of conduct known to them as "scout law." The camp motto will be "Be prepared," which has been the boy scout slogan since the incorporation of the movement in 1910.

"The most ardent preparedness advocate of today," the statement declares, "has added nothing new to the arguments that were recognized by the promoters of the boy scout scheme; indeed, the scout scheme goes further and provides a working plan, one that is actually working for preparedness in everyday life, for the routine requirements of citizenship, as well as for emergencies, including the remote possibilities of war."

The explanation of the fact that the boys will not receive military drill, the statement says:

"The rifle, the sword and other military accoutrement form no part of the boy scout equipment. The boy, in his adolescent years, we feel, is not sufficiently benefited by practice in the manual of arms to have it take place of other things which are of a more positive and constructive value."

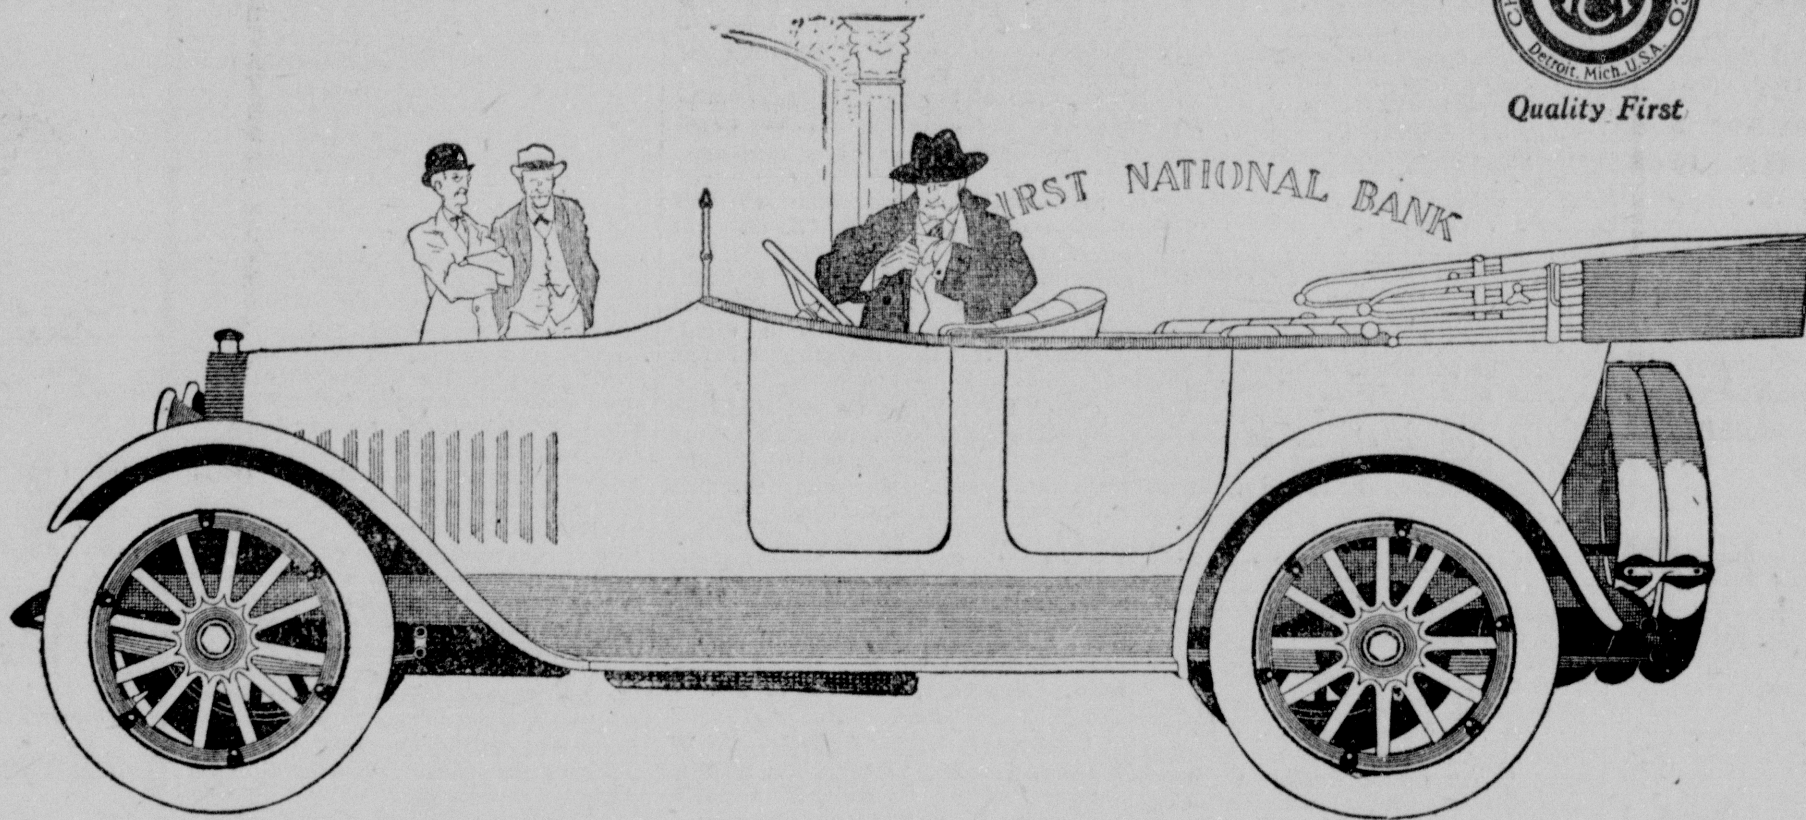

Lieutenant-general Sir Robert Baden-Powell (who developed the Boy Scout movement upon the "be prepared" plan), with long experience in England's recruiting work, strongly opposed military drill for the young boys, and is fighting hard now against the cadet system which is advocated by some in Great Britain. He opposes it on the ground that it defeats the object it is intended to accomplish; that efficient, well-disciplined, fighting men cannot be made without a personal development of character, responsibility, self-discipline, physical health, none of which come from the sort of military "drill" that young boys received.

"The Boy Scouts of America goes in a different way about the business of training boys for the service of their country. All of the interests and activities of the scouts are planned so as to give the boy a grounding in the qualities that make for good citizenship, a strong body, an alert mind, moral perceptions and inclinations, a knowledge of his country and of the true meaning of the flag. The boy who gets these in his teens and who in addition gets the training given the scouts will be able to master purely military drill in one-tenth the time the average boy would require; and he would have, plus this, initiative, resource, adaptability and ability to care for himself which the cadet would not have had time to require."

"The summer camps will be a demonstration. But back of this demonstration is that something else about the boy scout training which so changes and improves the spirit of the boy and his attitude toward his home, his school, his work and his country and his flag. It is what will count for most in an hour of crisis."

National headquarters records on June 1 showed that 42,000 men enrolled as scoutmasters and in other posts of leadership are prepared to assist in the summer encampments for which 180,495 boys are eligible. In addition, the camps will have the services of Army and Navy officers, naturalists, scoutcraft experts, Government life saving service officers, physicians, geologists, civil engineers, and other men qualified to give instruction.

"In this day when so much is being said about patriotic service," the statement says, "recognition should be given to the personal sacrifice of

ABILITY

That's the one word that fully describes the 3400 r. p. m. Chalmers

A man came in to my place the other day and said:

"What! a 3400 r. p. m. Chalmers at $1090. I never knew Chalmers built a car under $2,000."

So many ask the same question. We never feature price in big type. We don't sell price. We sell a car first; then tell how much it costs afterwards.

I suppose we lose some sales that way. But, of course, we have a car of such decided quality, of such extraordinary ability, of such terrific power from an engine that you wonder where it all comes from—well, we just don't know how to talk price when so many other things bob up in our minds.

Now take power. Here it is rated at 25.3 H.P. when you buy your license. You get her out in mud, or sand, or on a hill—and bing, you can just double that figure.

You have got just about 100 per cent more power than we give her credit for.

Of course, lots of cars have great big power. But with most of them you've got to pay the piper every time you use it. Those big power cars have great big engines mostly, and great big engines have a terrific appetite for gas. You know, I don't need to tell you.

This 3400 r. p. m. Chalmers has an engine in her that's got the kick.

You step on the accelerator button, and zip! You never saw such spunk.

And not only power, but she gets away like a scared horse. I have to watch my foot when it is on the little button. First thing I know I am going too fast.

That's what the boys back at the Chalmers plant call "acceleration." I call it "pep." That's my language.

I used to sell a lot of cars in days gone by in simply stating the price.

Now it is all different.

People are buying cars more intelligently. They want what they call ability. There are too many cars that look alike and have the same price tag on them. The only thing that separates them is ability. There's all the difference in the wide world between cars when you look at them this way.

One car is sluggish like a ploughing horse. Another has got a light foot and gets under way without taking a quarter mile to get into high.

Why, with this 3400 r. p. m. Chalmers I forget once in a while and actually start her on high.

There aren't many cars that ever do that.

Then she runs so everlastingly quiet I am always a little bit suspicious of her—like a fellow who doesn't talk much, but usually delivers.

She's got anything in this town beat. So far I have yet to meet her equal in "pep." She's got everything from get-away to a twister on a hill.

Then when you come right down to look at her, you will have to admit she's got blue eyes. She's beautiful.

The big-town people have all fallen for her this year. I got a letter from the factory the other day telling me they had shipped 18,000 since December 1.

And there are thousand of orders unfilled.

Take a friendly tip and get your order on file now. I don't want to see you disappointed by delayed delivery right in the best part of the driving season.

You folks who have driven a lot will see the difference in a jiffy. Come on down and try her out. She's there.

A Little Blossom To Delight the Home

And Now a Splendid Remedy Will Be of Great Help to the Expectant Mother

When it is known that in the near future the home is to be blessed with a new arrival the first thought should be "Mother's Friend."

This is an external remedy gently applied over the stomach muscles. It makes them firm and pliant, they expand naturally without undue strain. It removes from the nerves those influences which are responsible for much of the pain incident to the period of expectancy. It is for this reason that much of the distress such as morning sickness is avoided. All prospective fathers should see to it that the expectant mother is provided with a bottle of "Mother's Friend."

If more convenient get a bottle on your way home. Remember that many of our most valuable aids to health and comfort and safety are only such when our knowledge of them is put into action. Begin early to suggest its use and "Mother's Friend" will soon become one of the most helpful influences ever devised for avoiding much of the distress incident to coming motherhood.

The directions are simple. Get it at any drug store. It is applied by the expectant mother herself, it penetrates deeply and affords quick and splendid relief in a most gratifying manner and reflects a physical betterment to the nervous disposition of the baby. Don't fail to get a bottle of "Mother's Friend" today and then write Bradfield Regulator Co., 818 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for a pretty little book brimful of information for expectant mothers. It is a delight to read it.

that on April 28th it had said no less caustically:

"Isn't the Manchester Union a little officious in declaring that 'there are but two courses open to Mr. Hughes, with an immediate decision imperative in order to safeguard the Supreme Court against the imputation that a member of that august body may remain in his place on the highest bench in the land and continue to be a receptive candidate for the presidency?' In short, Mr. Justice Hughes must resign and say yes or no for good, after the manner of General Sherman. Mr. Justice Hughes is believed to be fully capable of attending to his own business, and probably he knows a little more about 'that august body' than some of the purists, who are bent on 'smoking him out.'"

The task of reconciling these sharp declarations we leave most humbly to our determined neighbor, merely suggesting that on the very day—May 21st—when it was sneering at the most notable popular demand of recent years, it might have derived some enlightenment from its own headlines on Page 3 to-wit: "See Hughes Boom Making Great Gains—Reported That One Favorite Son Will Withdraw and Another Support the Justice—Oregon Vote Impressive—Borah Says Hughes Would Have Carried Every State Primary Had His Name Been on the Ballot."

We shall be surprised if Dr. Charles R. Miller does not view the inevitable outcome in Chicago "with grave concern." Meanwhile we commend to his earnest consideration the prophecy, printed elsewhere, of the New York Herald, not only the shrewdest political forecaster in the country but nearly if not quite as "disinterested" as President Wilson's morganatic ambassador, and to the following from his wise alma mater of Springfield, Massachusetts:

"It no longer avails to account for the growing Hughes strength as 'the artificial creation of masters of manipulation who are using the Justice's name as a blind,' to quote the New York times. The strength of an unsought candidacy lies first in the understanding of this man's character as shown in his work as governor of New York, and second in the search for a harmony candidate who would heal the breach of 1912. Republicans of the rank and file possess more keenness of judgment than exploiting pontificans are ready to credit them with. The average man remembers that the series of speeches which Mr. Hughes made in 1905 on behalf of Mr. Taft as a presidential candidate furnished ample proof of the manner of man he is. He exhibited such moral and intellectual force in the presentation of politics and issues as gave to the country the only advocacy of the Republican side that is remembered.

And if there lurks in our neighbor's mind a doubt respecting acceptance, we would direct his attention to the following explicit utterance made with undoubted authority over his own signature by Mr. James T. Williams, Jr., Editor of the Boston Transcript, in a dispatch from Washington:

"If the Chicago convention nominates Charles Evans Hughes for the presidency he will accept the nomination and simultaneously send his resignation from the Supreme Court to the president. No authorized announcement of this fact will be made by Mr. Hughes in advance of his nomination, and he will not consent to involve the great court in politics by making any statement of his political views in advance of the convention. If nominated he will stand upon the platform of the convention that nominated him, and if he cannot accept its platform he will not accept the nomination. There have been efforts within the last few weeks to induce Mr. Hughes to resign from the bench and announce his candidacy for the presidency. These efforts have failed and they will probably fail if renewed. Mr. Hughes has too much respect for the Supreme Court to become a candidate for the presidency to decline a nomination to that office if it is offered to him.

He is attending to his work as a member of the supreme court and that he will continue to do unless and until he is nominated for the presidency. Then he will resign, and devote every day until the election to his campaign.

The second ballot is our guess."

The Standard of Value and Quality

BACK of every really worth while achievement there is always an idea or guiding principle. Men must think before they can produce.

With Paige it was "The Standard of Value and Quality".

Long before this phrase was actually expressed, Paige Engineers and Paige Designers were intent upon the production of an automobile that would offer the utmost of motoring luxury at minimum cost to the owner.

At a result, we, today, have the Paige Fairfield "Six-46"—a greater car and a finer car than that little group of pioneers ever dreamed of.

VAST ARMY AIDS WITH AGRICULTURE

GOVERNMENT'S FORCES TOUCH EVERY PART OF COUNTRY

Volunteer Workers Number Nearly 770,000—Help to Place Knowledge of Department Within Reach of People.

Washington, D. C., June 10.—Nearly 770,000 persons, largely successful farmers, are now aiding the U. S. Department of Agriculture by furnishing information, demonstrating the local usefulness of new methods, testing out theories, experimenting and reporting on conditions in their districts—by helping, in short, in almost every conceivable way to increase the knowledge of the Department and to place that knowledge at the service of the people. Many of these co-operators are actuated solely by a wish to be of service to their neighbors. Others take their own keen interest in testing new methods, or in trying out for themselves crops either new to their own sections or imported from foreign countries through the Department's plant explorers.

It is estimated that at least one farm out of every twenty is working in some way with the Department of Agriculture and thus become a center of advanced agricultural information for its community. In addition to the farmers who work directly with the Department of Agriculture, there are thousands of others who render a similar valuable service to the scientists and field workers of the State agricultural colleges and experiment stations.

With such a large number of farmers willing to work with the Department and the colleges and test out their recommendations, it is clear that a significant change has taken place from the day when the average farmer was decidedly skeptical about scientific agriculture and slow or unwilling to give attention to the recommendations of what many used to designate as "book farmers."

The wide use made by the Department of this large number of practical farmers indicates clearly how erroneous was the once prevalent idea that agricultural scientists held themselves aloof and that the Department of Agriculture consisted mainly of college-trained men, who were far more at home in their offices or laboratories than on actual farms. As a matter of fact, the scientific agriculturist today does not attempt to evolve theories in the solution of a government building. It is true he may develop ideas in his laboratory, but before he is ready to advise farmers to adopt them he tries them out in actual practice on government farms, and then calls on a large number of successful practical farmers to give these ideas an independent test on some of their own acres. In many other cases the scientist goes to the farmer both for his theory and practice. He studies and analyzes the practice of hundreds or thousands of successful farmers in an endeavor to find the scientific basis or underlying principle of farming methods which have, through long years of practical experience, been found to be most successful for their farms or neighborhoods. Frequently the scientist finds in one community certain farmers who are successful and others who are unsuccessful. He searches for the reasons for the success and failure of the two groups, and then endeavors to make clear to the successful ones the scientific reason for their success and to develop sound rules which will enable the unsuccessful to apply to their own farms the methods employed by their prosperous neighbors. In many cases, therefore, the scientist's recommendation represents the consensus of opinion of a large number of successful grain growers, truck raisers, dairymen, or other classes of farm managers.

Of the 770,000 co-operators the great majority are men who farm for a living. A wide variety of other occupations is represented in the list, however, from the masters of merchant vessels who take meteorological observations for the Weather Bureau to the college presidents who aid in the educational extension work of the Department or the pig club boys who supply their neighbors with object lessons in the profitable raising of hogs. In a general way the co-operators may be divided into three classes; those who furnish the Department with specific information acquired in the course of their regular occupations; those who demonstrate in actual practice the agricultural methods recommended by the Department; and those who volunteer to perform with new crops and new methods the experiments which furnish science with the necessary data for practical recommendations.

Prominent in the first class are the 108,600 crop correspondents who make possible the government estimates of crop production and values. Trained experts in the Bureau of Crop Estimates take the reports of these men and by careful comparison and averaging arrive at a knowledge of actual conditions throughout the country which could not be obtained in any other way. The information thus secured and published by the government is an invaluable guide to the farmers and business men of the country and an effective obstacle to reckless speculation and the manipulation of prices. Without such a system the knowledge possessed by any one individual would necessarily be limited to local conditions and it is no longer local but national and world-wide conditions that regulate business. This fact is occasionally overlooked by persons who are surprised to find that a short crop in their own section may be accompanied by low prices and are in consequence inclined to question the accuracy of the government estimates.

A corresponding service is rendered by the Weather Bureau by its corps of observers. The reports from sea captains and mates have already been mentioned. In addition, there are 1,500 observers who report temperature and rainfall regularly, 2,770 who display or disseminate forecasts and warnings, and 1,300 who report weekly during the crop growing season upon the effect of weather conditions.

In its researches and investigations the Department is also in great measure dependent upon reports from co-operators. Fifteen thousand railroad station agents, for example, have been instructed by railroad officials to furnish the Office of Markets and Rural Organization with post card reports of shipments of perishable crops which are used in the market news service of the office. This service was inaugurated last year to aid dealers and producers in the economical and efficient distribution and marketing of such crops as strawberries, cantaloupes, peaches, early onions, etc. Tariffs and other data are also supplied by the railroads, the cotton exchanges and individual firms send quotations samples and other information; 400 cold storage plants report monthly on their holdings of apples; 500 millers, grain dealers, Chambers of Commerce, etc., furnish the Bureau of Plant Industry with data in connection with the work of grain standardization, and 1,200 creameries and cheese factories report to the Bureau of Animal Industry. These, of course, are only a few instances of many. They serve to show, however, the ways in which the department keeps in touch with practical business conditions and is assisted by the same men whom it is working to assist.

In the second class of co-operators are the thousands of farmers who, under the supervision of department specialists are working out on their own farms the methods recommended by scientific agriculture; the boys and girls of the pig, corn and canning clubs who are demonstrating the neglected possibilities of profit in these fields; the women who have adopted for their own benefit and as a means of instructing their neighbors, improved methods in house-keeping; the 80,946 members of the arm bureaus and County Associations which support county agents in the northern and western states; nearly 10,000 leaders in club work for community welfare, and the state officials who aid in extension work, in the distribution of animal serums and vaccine and in other ways.

This demonstration work is of the utmost importance in the spread of sound agriculture. It is almost impossible to name the many forms in which it is being carried on, but one instance of its effect in Alabama is illuminating. A few years ago crimson clover was an unknown crop in that state. The department decided after considerable study that it was one of the most suitable legumes for the section and determined to introduce it. Ten farmers each in 10 counties agreed to plant one acre as an experiment. Two years later there were 250,000 acres in crimson clover in Alabama. The object lesson had had its effect.

Another important demonstration in progress at the present time is concerned with cultural methods for sugar beets. In this 1,000 farmers are taking part. Another thousand in the arid areas of the great plains are planting trees to make shelter-belts as recommended by the department and are making their farms a meeting place for their neighbors. In the cotton belt 80 farmers are demonstrating the advantages of superior varieties and improved cultural methods and 50 in South Carolina and Alabama are showing how to breed wilt-resistant cotton and are producing for sale seed of varieties developed by the department.

The third way in which farmers are actively cooperating with the department is in the conduct of experiments. These are as varied as the demonstrations. One man, for example, reports regularly on his progress in breeding ostriches while more than 11,000 are growing the plants which the department introduces from foreign countries. Sixty farmers are now furnishing the land and labor for experiments in corn improvement and 30 are aiding the tobacco work of the department in the same way. Seed corn furnished by 600 farmers who, to a certain extent, are also demonstrating the varieties they test.

Without the assistance which it received in these and similar ways the department of agriculture could not do the work it does. The fact that hundreds of thousands of practical farmers and business men find it worth their while to devote time to the department's undertakings indicates that they believe them vital to their own affairs.

The Raw-Boned Colt.

So many men speak of their raw-boned yearling and two-year-old colts as growth youngsters that there is an evident misconception as to what constitutes good growing condition in colts. Throughout American draft horse breeding districts there is an unwarranted admiration of leanness in colts. The natural consequence is the small-sized horses produced from big-bred as well as big-matured stallions and mares.

Some colts grow in frame in spite of poor feeding; others carry a fair amount of flesh and grow fast if there is enough extra nourishment to support both flesh and frame. It is folly to suppose that the thin colt grows faster than the one in moderately strong flesh. It is natural for colts or older horses to carry considerable flesh when they are feeling first-rate and have all the nourishment the systems crave. The most successful horsemen recognize that trait and use flesh rather than a protruding frame-work as an indication of thrift. It is almost inconceivable that any man should suppose that anything but liberal feeding would supply the material for a colt to build up bone, muscle and general stature as fast and as far as the best breeders succeed in getting them.

The raw-boned colt is not well nourished. It has not enough feed to grow fast and so it grows slowly and gives still less material for building flesh than framework. It would be a safer criterion for every horse breeder if he aimed to keep every colt in strong, plump flesh. This requires liberal feeding, but that is perfectly safe if accompanied by plenty of exercise.

It is not heavy speeding but inaction that allows the joints of plump colts to go wrong. It has been abundantly proved over and over again that a colt leading an inactive life will usually stay as sound as his confraternal warrants. If anything goes wrong with legs or feet it is either the result of malformation or accident. The breeding and the fences have more to do with soundness than does the feeding. The skinny colt may keep free from bogs or other puffs partly because its tissues are too dried up to furnish any secretions to make puffs, but that is no indication or merit. If a colt can not stand liberal feeding without getting badly formed joints it is either an inferior colt naturally or else it is not taking enough exercise. The feed must be given if the colt is to grow big.—Breeders' Gazette.

NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE IN SUMMER

All the ladies know how hard it is to prevent the hot weather from ruining their hair. The perspiration exudes in increased quantities, carrying with it waste, poisonous matter, which, unless removed, promptly clogs the pores and irritates the scalp. The difficulty of keeping the hair and scalp sweet and clean in the summer only renders the use of NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE more imperative.

Destroys Dandruff, Keeps The Hair and Scalp Sweet, Clean and Sanitary

There is nothing that will give greater comfort on a hot day than an application of HERPICIDE. It induces a sense of coolness and cleanliness besides imparting health and strength to the hair. One's personal charm and attractiveness is enhanced by the increased gloss and beauty of the hair due to the intelligent use of HERPICIDE, society's best known scalp prophylactic.

If the hair be wet from bathing either in fresh or salt water, HERPICIDE quickly restores the natural fluidness and softness. It stops itching of the scalp almost instantly. The dainty exquisite odor makes NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE an ideal hot weather hair dressing. When you start away on your summer outing, have a bottle in your grip.

Send ten cents for sample bottle to the HERPICIDE COMPANY, Dept. 140-B, Detroit, Mich.

THE FRANKLIN HIGH SCHOOL

FRANKLIN HIGH SCHOOL ANNUAL IS ISSUED

Publication a Credit to the Staff and the Town—Presents Large Amount of Interesting Subject Matter.

People of Franklin and vicinity have been awaiting with great interest the appearance of Franklin's, the annual on which members of the senior class of the Franklin high school have been working so industriously for some months past. The book as issued Saturday gives evidence of the painstaking and able efforts of the editors. The book is from the press of J. K. Long and includes sixty-four pages in addition to the handsome covers, done in purple and gold. In addition to the excellent subject matter, the annual is very handsomely illustrated with halftones. The credit for the book is due to the staff, which includes:

Editor in chief—Ruth Tulpin.
Manager—Alan Keplinger.
Assistant editor—Esther Sample.
Designer—Fred Miller.

The name of the book signifies the town and state and the suggestion came from Winifred Keplinger and Esther Sample, and this fact is mentioned in the foreword. The halftones include one of the school, others showing the staff, members of the faculty, members of the senior, junior, sophomore and freshmen classes and of the board of education, which includes M. B. Keplinger, president; W. N. Luttrell, clerk; J. B. Burch, director.

The present site of the Franklin high school includes two and a half acres purchased from the late M. P. Ayers and the original building was erected at a cost of $5,500. An addition was made in 1890 and in 1915 extensive betterments were made at a cost of $11,000. The building is now modern and well equipped. The faculty the past year included Prof. Mounce, Miss Hulke, and Miss Dinsmore. The faculty members were frequently consulted by the editors of the book and gave them their generous support.

Seniors—Alan Marshall Keplinger, Winifred Belle Keplinger, Ruth Marie Woods, Mollie Orilla Harris.

Seniors—Cullen Curlee Gates, Nanca Clamanza Topfiff, Ola Mae Gibson, Agnes Magdalena Bergschneider.

Open windows and near neighbors are no reason for not asking Thomas Chalmers to sing famous baritone of the Boston Opera, singing in direct comparison with Edison's Re-Creation of his voice.

Thomas Chalmers

Mr. Chalmers is but one of the many great artists who have thus proved that Edison's new art successfully sustains the pitiless test of this astounding comparison.

Hear Edison's Re-Creation of Chalmers' magnificent voice; then hear Chalmers himself when this great baritone is on tour.

EVERYONE is glad to hear the wonderful voice of Thomas Chalmers. They will be equally glad to hear Edison's Re-Creation of Chalmers' voice, as one cannot be distinguished from the other.

Read what the critics say after hearing this test made. Ask us for booklet containing critiques which have appeared in the leading newspapers. The blase music critics admit that their trained ears cannot distinguish an artist's voice from Edison's Re-Creation of it.

The NEW EDISON

re-creates all forms of music with absolute fidelity. It is not alone the voice of Thomas Chalmers which is so re-created. No voice or form of music is beyond Edison's new art.

MISS TAYLOR APPOINTED TO GOOD POSITION

Miss Ruth Taylor, who graduated the past week from the Woman's college, taking a bachelor's degree in the department of home economics has been appointed instructor in the township high school at Palestine, Ill. She will have charge of the domestic science work there, a very desirable position. The township high school has been but recently completed and is a large and finely equipped building. The principal of the school is D. B. Fager, who is a long time acquaintance of Pres. Harker. It was in Jackson county in 1875 that Dr. Harker conducted his first county institute, and Mr. Fager was one of the younger teachers who attended.

BLISS' JUNE FORECASTS

June, after whom the month of June takes its name, was the wife of Jupiter and the queen of heaven. She was an imperious old dame and she felt her royal oats and asserted her regal authority in a way that brought discomfiture to those who were brought under the ban of her displeasure. The most of her time was occupied in watching her husband and circumventing him in his illicit intrigues, for Jupiter was a sportive cuss and remarkably susceptible to female charms. One day she caught the old rone flirting with Io, but as Juno bore down upon the guilty pair with the rolling pin grasped firmly in her right hand the sly Jupiter changed to a handsome Hereford heifer. But Juno was too smart to be fooled and she led the heifer home and told Argus, the guy with a hundred eyes, to watch her. Then Jupiter sent Mercury to kill Argus, which he did by cutting off his head. Juno was inconsolable at the death of Argus and she carefully took out his hundred eyes and placed them in the tail of a peacock, her favorite fowl. That accounts, my children, for the beautiful eye-like spots in the tail of a peacock. Then Juno sent a green head fly to torment the heifer Io and the poor creature, to get away from the fly, ran all over Greece swimming rivers, climbing mountains and bawling for mercy until Jupiter promised, his jealous wife that he would be good and Io was changed back into a handsome young lady. But she didn't monkey any more with Jupiter, believe me. Then Jupiter, the lascivious old he-dub, fell in love with another young woman named Callisto, and made a date with her. Juno was put wise by her maid servant, Iris, and she immediately changed Callisto into a she bear, which cured Jupiter of his passion, for he couldn't bear Callisto after that.

June, besides being inordinately jealous, was a violent old termagant.

She kicked her son Vulcan, out of heaven because he was lame. Vulcan was a blacksmith and opened a shop on earth where he sharpened plows, set wagon tires, shod horses and forged thunder bolts for mule, hind feet. But the month of June is wholly unlike the celestial goddess after whom she was named. She comes to us with roses in her hair and her breath redolent with the gentle fragrance of the heliotrope and the pungent odor of young onions.

No other month in all the year can trot in this month's class, the good old summer time is here and lots of garden sass. The kids will soon begin to gripe on a green apple diet and every fruit both raw and ripe, the hungry lips will try it! The green gooseberries on the vine, will tempt the little mums, and with the other truck combine to vex their tender intestines. The cherries now are turning red, the canning season's high, and soon our systems will be fed on good old cherry pie. Talk not to me of vlands rare, of terrapin and cherry, of delicious pies you will prepare made from the juicy cherry. Lucullus off a fortune blew his appetite to please, the Roman glutton never knew there were such pies as these! So make your pie crust crisp and short and put in lots of juice. I'll tell you there's no other sort so good—but what's the use!

This is the month when Cupid shoots his blessed little dart and hits the gushing maiden in the region of her heart, but then the love-tipped little shaft, without a pause or crook, speeds on right thru until it strikes some young man's pocket book! In June the college graduate steps out into the world with courage that's invincible and banners all unfurled. He challenges the multitude with not a thought of fear, and then in trumpet tones he cries: "Just look and see who's here." Yet no one stops or hesitates, but from the hurrying mob, some one cries out in warning tones: "You'd better hunt a job!"

The month of June this year is big with events. Col. Roosevelt will be in perigee until the 7th, and seismic shocks will prevail all over the country, accompanied by ominous storm clouds, alarming displays of teeth and terrific reverberations of thunder that will stampede the American people unless they are careful. The Terrible Teddy will jump high into the air and crack his heels together four times before he lights. He will spit on his hands and pop his fists and probably chaw soap to make him froth at the mouth. He will light on the President all spraddled out and whoop and yell until the children flee to the cellars and the women collapse with nervous prostration. After the 7th the Colonel will probably be in apogee and as he sulks in his tent at Oyster Bay he will sadly murmur:

"Take it from me, this man Judge Hughes can't stand in presidential shoes. The G. O. P. must now watch out, for they are now on River Doubt, and this man Hughes, so I have heard, is just a meek, nut-eating bird!"

If this prediction should fail we can look for storms, seismic shocks, oratorical tornadoes, loquacious cyclones, political submarines, bomb dropping Zeppelins and Ananiases from now on until the first Tuesday in November.

On the 4th of this month the Democrats will hold religious exercises and a family reunion at St. Louis, which they will call a convention, but it will be no more like the great blare to be held in Chicago on the 7th than a Sunday school picnic is like the battle now raging at Verdun!—Montgomery News.

MEXICAN AFFAIRS

Editor Journal—

On or about the 15th day of May, 1916, I left San Benito, Tex., for a tour through the Northern States. On two instances I gave a brief account of the bandit trouble, and a description of the Rio Grande valley in that section of the country. It seems as if these "brief accounts" were considered too tame, and a brief history of everything that happened in the last two years, and for fifty miles around, have been added on to make the story interesting. So the only way to get a true story of this country, as I saw it when I left there is to give it myself.

As to the bandit trouble, we had none for several months prior to my leaving, yet we still have soldiers and rangers there to prevent any trouble, should the Mexicans become unruly. The people there do not seem to be uneasy, and have no notion of leaving on account of the Mexicans.

As to declaring war with Mexico, I am not prepared to state what steps should be taken to settle matters there. I think, however, Mexican conditions are not affecting us in the Rio Grande Valley, the real trouble being in northern Mexico.

As to the country there, I will say that in all my travels I haven't seen anything to compare with it and I shall return to the valley soon. J. O. Prentice.

COMMISSIONER SHAW EXPLAINED THE RATE CASE STATUS

Informal Opinion Already Rendered Will be Entered Unless Petitioners Ask for Consideration of Compromise Offer.

A statement made by Commissioner Walter Shaw of the Illinois utilities commission left no doubt as to the position of the commissioner with reference to the Jacksonville rate case. Briefly stated, the commission will very shortly hand down a written opinion in the rate case in accordance with the informal opinion already made public. This will be the order unless the petitioners in the case let the commission know that it is their wish to effect a compromise with the company in accordance with the recent company proposition.

Commissioner Shaw explained to a Journal reporter that the commission could not consistently do otherwise. "We are in a somewhat unusual position," he said. "Some weeks ago we made an informal opinion in the rate case, outlining what our finding would be. This was done because of the representations made to us that it would be for the benefit of the city and the company and would serve to clear away some existing differences to the advantage of all concerned. Now the company having information as to what rates would be specified in the formal finding, has come in with a proposition to effect a compromise in the case. Our finding was based upon a thorough investigation of all the facts and was made with the expectation that the facts set forth could be substantiated in court if necessary. The review of the case and the opinion I have prepared is ready for consideration by the whole commission and the opinion if presented in the form outlined will be effective as of April 1. As to what view I might take of the compromise suggestion if the facts alleged by the company in the compromise offer could be substantiated and various local matters were thus to be cleared up, is not a matter for me to discuss. Meanwhile unless there is a request by the petitioners, the order will be issued effective as of April 1, and light and gas consumers should save their bills to present to the company for refund.

"If the proposition order is formally made and appeal is taken the company will be required to file a bond or to otherwise make secure the consumers."

Dr. Edward Bowe stated last night that, as indicated by the telegram sent to Mr. Stevens, the petitioners are fully satisfied with the commission ruling and see no reason at the present time for asking the commission to consider the company's proposition offer.

Commissioner Shaw said in addition to the facts given above that Mr. Fischer had declared that the changes in rate schedule suggested by the company would make a difference to the people of Jacksonville of not more than $2,000 a year. Whether this statement was correct in accordance with the commission's figures, Mr. Shaw said he would not attempt to state—that he had merely quoted the suggestion made by Mr. Fischer. It was estimated that the original order of the company as informally made would save the people of Jacksonville $20,000 a year by comparison with the rates now charged for service, and therefore if the company calculations accord with the commission figures the saving per annum in accordance with the compromise offer would be $18,000 a year.
